THANKSGIVING DAY has passed, but we should still be thankful, especially for discoveries in science, on which our welfare depends.

Berlin scientists have created the coldest spot on earth, producing laboratory experiments at temperature 459 degrees below zero.

Outside our atmosphere, in mysterious space separating solar systems from each other, there exists "absolute zero." On our Fahrenheit thermometer, that would be 461 degrees below zero, space without heat.

At such a temperature the properties of matter change. Metals lose resistance to electricity and become supra-conductors. A thin thread of mercury will carry enough electricity to light several hundred lamps. Helium, the gas used in our dirigibles, becomes liquid a few degrees above absolute zero. In that terrible cold molecules in matter lose their motion, which may account for their greater electric conductivity.

Most important to science is the fact that life itself is not destroyed at that low temperature. Seeds of barley, wheat, mustard, and other plants, exposed to a temperature just above absolute zero did not lose their germinating power. Consequently, life on this planet—after it cooled off, might have been started by life germs from other planets, hurled off into space, settling in our oceans, and by evolution, producing all life from microbes to men.

That would make it unnecessary for life to be created miraculously on all the billions of planets in space, and would have saved a great deal of trouble.

Consider, also, that the sun's heat comes through 93,000,000 miles of ether at absolute zero, to warm our planet. The sun's rays become heat only when they strike the resistance of our atmosphere, just as the electric current, coming in Winter over a cold copper wire, becomes heat when it strikes the resistance of the electric stove.

First abstract science, then useful application. Practical men may find a way to create in metals, apart from absolute zero temperature, conditions similar to those that absolute zero creates. That would make possible transportation of electric current without cost or loss, and solve the problem of cheap power.

Americans are lending money abroad in billions of dollars without asking what will be done with the money or how its use may affect America.

Chinese business men protest against proposed American loans to the South Manchurian Railway. "That railroad," say the Chinese, "is an agency for Japanese imperialistic penetration into China, a Japanese imperialistic, political and economic in-

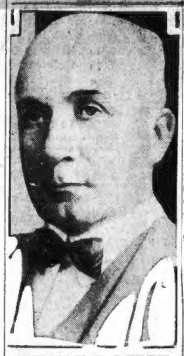
SUM DIRECTED SENT TO BRAZILIAN MEMBER OF MIXED COMMISSION

By JOHN NGE.

(Copyright, 1927, by Wington Heald.)

Washington, Nov. 25.—The Boston Evening American and associated Hearst papers today published documents which impeach the good faith of the Mexican Government in arbitrating questions at issue with the United States.

These documents refer to a sum of $10,000,000 which Plutarco Elias Calles, President of Mexico, certified given to Dr. Rodrigo Octavio, Brazilian [illegible] Mexican Claims Commission, as "a recompense for his good services to Mexico."



JUDGE E. B. PERRY
Nebraska jurist represented the United States on the indemnity board.

This commission first convened in 1925 to arbitrate American claims against the Mexican Government for life and property losses sustained by United States citizens during the revolutionary period from November 20, 1910, to May 31, 1920.

A decision unfavorable to American claims for damages resulting from the assassinations of sixteen United States citizens was handed down seven months after the money was ordered paid to Dr. Octavio. In the meantime the Mexican press had freely commented on the pro-Mexican attitude of the commission.

Judge Ernest B. Perry, of Lincoln, Nebraska, was the American member of the commission; Fernando Gonzalez Rea was the Mexican commissioner, and Dr. Rodrigo Octavio, one of Brazil's leading jurists, was selected by the Mexican and American governments

HUNDREDS KILLED; WAR LOOMS IN BALKANS

Bucharest, Rumania, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—A special dispatch to the newspaper Dimineata today says that chaos and anarchy are reigning in the Ukraine with hundreds killed in street fighting.

The dispatch says hundreds of civilians and soldiers were killed in fierce street fighting in the town of Kamenetz-Podolsk.

The firing of cannon could be heard all along the Dniester river.

CALIFORNIA NATIONAL GUARDSMEN TRAIN GUNS ON CROWDS

International Newsreel photo, telegraphed to the Boston Evening American over the telephoto wires of the A. T. & T. Co., shows National Guardsmen with machine guns trained on the vast crowds which seethed around the gates of Folsom Prison, California, while the prisoners who had mutinied were barricaded in the place. It was evident the authorities feared outside assistance from the crowd might be given to the prisoners. The photograph was made today just before the mutiny was ended.

MRS. GIBBONS BREAKS DOWN AT SIGHT OF SON

Fall River, Nov. 25.—Mrs. Gertrude F. Gibbons, on trial for her life for the murder of her husband, Theodore R. Gibbons, showed today the first evidence of emotion that has marked her since the beginning of her trial last Monday. The woman broke down when her little son was walked by her under the guidance of District Attorney Crossley, the youngster never casting a look at his mother.

Just before the little fellow, who according to the State's charges was the cause of quarrels between the parents, these ending in the murder of Gibbons by his wife and her suitor, made his dramatic entry, the defendant had shown anger when Mrs. Blanche Mallours, a neighbor, testified the defendant had told her that she preferred Anton Da Silvia to her husband.

"She said Da Silvia was a better man and treated her better," said the witness.

PRISONERS SURRENDER IN REVOLT; 11 SLAIN

Folsom Prison, Cal., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—One of the most spectacular prison rebellions in the history of California came to a peaceful end here at 7:35 a. m. today when several hundred convicts who yesterday barricaded themselves in a cell house and fought National Guardsmen and civil officers in a pitched battle that resulted in the loss of nine lives, surrendered to Warden Court Smith.

The revolting convicts laid down the guns with which they had stood off a besieging force of more than 500 men and released the four guards they were holding as hostages.

Warden Smith announced the surrender after he had communicated by telephone with the leader of the defiant convicts. The latter acceded to the State's demand for virtually an unconditional capitulation.

The surrender came after National Guard and prison officers announced they would flood the building where

RUTH AND JUDD PLAN FOR 'LAST DITCH' FIGHT

New York, Nov. 25 (I.N.S.).—A "last ditch" conference, in which defense attorneys will confer on any possible remaining measures to avoid the electric chair, was announced today on behalf of Mrs. Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray, under sentence to die the week of January 3 for the sashweight murder of the woman's husband.

Samuel I. Miller, counsel for Gray, intimated today that in addition to making an appeal for executive clemency, he would take a plea to the United States courts by means of seeking a writ of habeas corpus in the United States District Court.

If the writ is granted he will then appeal to the United States Supreme Court at Washington on the ground that Gray's constitutional rights were violated during the trial.

Gray has had no visitors since the Appeals ourt refusal to grant a new trial early this week. He has

GOVERNOR IS ILL IN EUROPE

Governor Fuller is in Europe recovering from a severe illness. His personal physician and his mother are with him. He is convalescing rapidly and will be back on the job at the State House about December 10.

A run-down condition, which threatened to undermine his health, resulted from the strain of the "car-barn" and Sacco-Vanzetti executions.

His departure three weeks ago was kept secret because threats against his life and the safety of the "special committee" still are being received from Sacco-Vanzetti radicals.

These are the facts printed today in explanation of the secret departure of Alvan T. Fuller from the gubernatorial chair exactly three weeks ago today.

When Massachusetts law put up to Governor Fuller as the court of last appeal the final verdict as to whether three men should die for the Wrightman carbarn slaying, and whether two of the world's most prominent anarchists should be electrocuted for a payroll murder, she placed a burden greater than any man could bear upon the shoulders of the State's chief executive.

Outwardly he was little disturbed. Given to suppressing his emotions, this characteristic worked to his own undoing when the break came.

PAYMENT OF $10,000 MADE TO NEUTRAL ARBITER BY MEXICO

MONEY PAID OUT BEFORE VERDICT WAS REACHED

in agreement to serve as the neutral commissioner or arbiter.

In cases of disagreement between the American and Mexican members of the commission the Brazilian jurist was to have the deciding vote, and was under the most solemn obligation to cast it impartially and according to the evidence placed before him.

$100,000 ORDER

In addition to the commissioners already named, who were to act in the capacity of judges, both the Mexican and American governments were represented by legal counsel headed by a lawyer of high standing called an "agent." Colonel Henry W Anderson, of Richmond, Virginia, and Washington, D. C., and once a candidate for governor of Virginia, was the American agent and Aquiles Elorduy was the agent for Mexico.

During the early life of the Mixed Commission thus constituted for the trial of American claims against Mexico, President Calles ordered his Treasury Department to pay $100,000 to the arbiter, Dr. Octavio, through Octavio's private secretary, Carlos J. Berenger, also a Brazilian. The Calles order is published in facsimile elsewhere in the American. The text follows:

To the Citizen Secretary of the Treasury.

You will please order the Treasurer General of the Nation to issue a pay warrant for the sum of $100,000 (One hundred thousand dollars) in favor of Senor don Carlos J. Berenger, to be delivered by him to His Excellency Senor don Rodrigo Octavio as a recompense for his good services to Mexico.

President Calles, as usual in such cases, ordered the "pay warrant charged to "secret expenditures," and without compliance with the legal requisites. In other words, no receipt was to be demanded. On the same day he communicated with the Department of Foreign Relations, advising that he had ordered the payment made to Octavio. This communication follows:

To the Citizen Secretary of Foreign Affairs.

This date I have ordered the Citizen Secretary of the Treasury Department to see to it that a pay warrant for $100,000 (One hundred thousand dollars) be issued in favor of Senor don Carlos J. Berenger, to be delivered by him to His Excellency Senor don Rodrigo Octavio, as a recompense for his valuable services as Arbiter of the Mixed Claims Commission.

You will please ask the Treasurer General for the said pay warrant, which should be delivered by your department to the interested party, avoiding every evil interpretation in this affair.

EFFECTIVE SUFFRAGE
NO RE-ELECTION
The National Palace, Mexico, D. F., Sept. 9, 1925.
The President of the Republic
P. ELIAS CALLES
SG/PEC/RL (Hand-written)

Calles, in this letter to the Foreign Office, made the specific statement that the money was to be paid to Octavio as a recompense for his valuable services "as arbiter of the Mixed Claims Commission." He made the significant stipulation that it was to be delivered to "the interested party" by the Foreign Office, which had direct charge of the Mexican Government's defense of the claims presented before the commission by the United States.

The Mixed Commission headed by Dr. Octavio adjourned in September, 1925, the month in which Calles ordered the money paid to Octavio, without making any material progress. It resumed its sittings early in 1926, and by the beginning of February was well into the famous Santa Isabel case.

This case arose from the assassination of sixteen Americans who were re-entering Mexico to resume mining operations at the express invitation of the Mexican Government, conveyed through General Alvaro Obregon. Obregon at that time was the Chief of Military Operations in northern Mexico and was soon to become President.

Speaking at a banquet in El Paso, Texas, Obregon invited Americans who had left Mexico because of the depredations committed by the rebel forces under "Pancho" Villa, to return. He said that Villa's power had been broken and Americans could resume their normal activities with safety, at least in the district over which he had control.

TRAIN HELD UP

Charles R. Watson, general manager of the Cusihuiriachi Mining Company, of Chihuahua, and fifteen other Americans accepted the invitation. They left Juarez, across the Rio Grande River from El Paso, on a train bound for the mining property which they planned to reopen. They were happy in the prospect of getting busy again after a long period of idleness, and of affording work to hundreds of needy Mexicans. There was no danger, they assured each other, for had not the Mexican Government, through its qualified representative, General Obregon, told them there was none?

Near the little station of Santa Isabel the train was stopped by a large force of Villistas. The Americans were ordered to leave the passenger coaches, and did so. Then they were stripped of their clothes and killed, while naked. Their bodies were mutilated, either before death or after. Then the triumphant Villistas fled into their refuge in the hills where they planned their raid on the American town of Columbus, New Mexico, which resulted in the Pershing Punitive Expedition.

Colonel Anderson, in charge of all cases filed by Americans against Mexico for loss of life or property during the so-called revolutionary period, selected those arising from the Santa Isabel massacre as the most clean-cut and admitting of no doubt whatever of Mexico's legal and moral responsibility. He even thought the Mexican representatives on the Commission might not contest the case at all. The Mexican Commissioner, Fernando Gonsales Roa, had helped write the agreement or "Convention" establishing the Commission, and Colonel Anderson thought that Roa might cooperate with Judge Perry, the American Commissioner, and Dr. Octavio, the neutral and presiding Commissioner, in working out a settlement which would be fair both to the American claimants and to Mexico.

Colonel Anderson's hope was justified, for in the Convention establishing the Special Mixed Claims Commission, it was set forth in Article II that:

"Mexico wishes that her responsibility shall not be fixed according to the generally accepted rules and principles of international law, but EX GRATIA feels morally bound to make full indemnification and agrees, therefore, that it will be sufficient that the alleged loss or damage in any case was sustained and was due to any of the causes enumerated in Article III hereof.

Article III stipulated that the Commission should examine and decide claims for damages suffered through any of the following agencies:

1.—By forces of a government DE JURE or DE FACTO.

2.—By revolutionary force as a result of whose triumph governments DE FACTO or DE JURE have been established, or by revolutionary forces opposed to them.

3.—By forces arising from the disjunction of the forces mentioned in the next preceding paragraph up to the time when the government DE JURE established itself as a result of a particular revolution.

4.—By Federal forces that were not disbanded.

5.—By mutinies or mobs, or insurrectionary forces other than those referred to under subdivisions 2, 3 and 4 above or by bandits, provided in any case it be established that the appropriate authorities omitted to take reasonable measures to suppress in surrectionists, mobs, or bandits, or treated them with lenity or were in fault in other particulars.

The foregoing causes for damages clearly covered almost any contingency under which an American could be killed in Mexico, whether by soldiers, rebels, mutineers, bandits, robbers or rioters. The Mexican Government received much praise at the time the Convention was drawn for its "splendid willingness" to go even beyond its obligations under international law and settle for damages suffered by Americans originating in any way from revolutionary disturbances. The then American Secretary of State, Charles Evans Hughes, is known to have recognized the Obregon Government principally on that account.

Colonel Anderson's surprise may be imagined, then, as he watched the development of the Mexican efforts at evasion of the provisions of the Convention. His surprise grew into astonishment when he saw that the "neutral" arbiter, Dr. Octavio, was in full sympathy with the Mexican viewpoint.

On February 8, 1926, ten weeks before the unfavorable decision was actually handed down, Colonel Anderson could read the hand-writing on the wall, and said:

"The position assumed by the Mexican Government constitutes a complete denial of every obligation admitted, or assumed by Mexico under the provisions of the Convention establishing this Commission and is in legal effect a repudiation of the Convention itself.

"The Mexican position is a denial and repudiation of the clear and express language of the Convention. Under the terms of the Convention, the Commission should be guided by the broad principles of equity and justice.

MEXICO ABSOLVED

"As representative of the United States I ask nothing but the rights of my government and cannot accept less."

By March 10 the Mexican Agent, Aquiles Elorduy, was boasting of the coming victory in the Santa Isabel case and Mexican newspapers were speaking of the forthcoming favorable decision in the confident light of advance knowledge.

The decision was read at a formal meeting of the Commission on April 26, 1926, and bore out the boasts of Elorduy that Mexico would win. The decision absolved Mexico from any responsibility for the assassination of the 16 Americans at Santa Isabel, and represented the combined opinions of the Mexican Commissioner, Senor Roa, and of Dr. Octavio, the neutral Commissioner. Judge Perry, the American Commissioner, entered a futile dissenting opinion which he read to the Commission with flushed face and flashing eyes, much as his fighting ancestor, Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry, might have read it in similar circumstances.

ENTERS PROTEST

The United States entered a formal protest against the decision, reserving the right to reopen the case at some future time. This action was taken in obedience to orders from Ambassador Sheffield, who notified the State Department AFTER it had been done.

There is reason to believe the unfortunate experience of the American Government in the arbitration of the Santa Isabel case had something to do with the decision of President Coolidge last Winter not to arbitrate other pending differences with Mexico. President Calles made the offer to arbitrate them in an interview with a group of American "good will" investigators into conditions in Mexico. This body was headed by Dr. Hubert C. Herring, a Congregationalist Minister, writer and lecturer. Mr. Coolidge's first reaction to the proposal seemed favorable, but after mature consideration he refused to arbitrate. This refusal was made in spite of a Senate resolution in favor of arbitrating with Mexico.

These revelations will be continued in the Boston Evening American.

Dr. Gruening Denies Calles Paid Him

In an article published Wednesday morning, November 23, the Boston Evening American and associated Hearst newspapers asserted that President Calles of Mexico had drawn an order on the Mexican treasury for $10,000 payable to Dr. Ernest Gruening, writer, for the study of the situation in England some weeks prior to the British coal strike of 1926.

A facsimile of this order made from the original, authentic document now in the possession of the Hearst newspapers, was printed with the article, together with its English translation.

Dr. Gruening at Portland, Maine, has issued the following statement:

"I never discussed the British coal strike with President Calles.

"I was never authorized by President Calles to go on this, or any other mission.

"I never received a cent of money from President Calles, directly or indirectly.

"I was not in England in 1926.

"I was not in Mexico on the date that the alleged order for $10 000 was, according to Mr. Hearst's express, issued for expenses on a way ago for the discharge of a mission.

"The document which purports to be a photostat of a warrant ordering the treasurer general of the nation to pay me $10,000 is obviously a forgery."

Fuller Seriously Ill in Europe With Mother

On the day following the execution of the three Brighton men, Governor Fuller was inaugurated for his second term. The ordeal through which he had gone seemed to have had but little effect upon him.

PERSONAL STUDY.

Shortly after the Sacco-Vanzetti case came up for final disposition after seven years of bandying in the State courts, the Governor spent several months in a personal study of the case, in addition to the separate work of his appointed commission. He worked through long nights with little sleep. He paid two separate night visits to the condemned radicals in Stone prison.

Great pressure was brought to bear upon him from both sides and from all over the world, with men of prominence arrayed on both sides of the execution. His life and the lives of his wife and child en were threatened and in constant danger.

NO FEAR FOR SELF.

For himself Governor Fuller had no fear, but for his family he was in constant trepidation. And when the four struck and Sacco and Vanzetti, together with Madeiros, were put to death in Charlestown he still would not give in to the emotions, the worries and strain which had racked his body and mind for more than a year.

These facts were learned from a man close to the Governor.

Three weeks ago the reaction came. Governor Fuller stepped out of the State House with a few brief words of explanation. He took the Knickerbocker Limited for New York.

From New York, the next day, with his mother and Dr. P. C. Sylvester, his personal physician, he sailed for Europe. And in Europe convalescing under the watchful eyes of two persons who love him, he has since been.

Reports today are most assuring. The rest has worked a marvelous change in him. He is nearly his former self.

In a few days he will sail for New York and on or around December 10 he will be back in the State House.

Disclosures Today

DOCUMENTS from the Mexican secret files published by the Boston Evening American and associated Hearst newspapers today reveal that:

President Calles ordered that $100,000 be delivered to Dr. Rodrigo Octavio, a Brazilian, who served as neutral commissioner of the special Mixed Claims Commission, "as a recompense for his services" to Mexico.

Dr. Octavio sided with the Mexican member of the commission in handing down a decision in which Mexico was freed from all responsibility in connection with the murder of sixteen Americans at Santa Isabel in 1916.

JUDGE CHANDLER SCORES LAWRENCE CONSTABLES

Lawrence, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Stating that he had little sympathy for the high-handed methods employed by certain constables in serving civil writs, Judge P. N. Chandler in district court today dismissed four defendants charged with assaulting Samuel Slavin, civil constable.

"The abusive use of civil process in this city has got to a point where something must be done," he said. "I do not want people to get the notion, though, that they can defy civil officers, for while they are in due process of serving writs, I will uphold them, to the fullest extent of my jurisdiction."

SUFFERED FOR 8 YEARS FROM FOOT INJURY

New Bedford, Oct. 25 (A.P.)—In thanksgiving for a cure which she attributed to the intercession of St. Theresa, the Little Flower of Jesus, Miss Alice M. Toomey has left for Schenectady, N. Y., to enter the novitiate of the Carmelites. To this order belonged St. Theresa herself.

For more than eight years Miss Toomey suffered from a foot crushed by mill machinery. Despite some improvement it was still out of shape and hurting when in 1925 she attended a novena to the Little Flower at St. Lawrence's Church here. For nine days she attended all the services and a relic of the saint was applied to her wounded foot.

On the last day, Sept. 30, 1925, as she kneeled before the shrine, she related afterward, she sought to move her foot and found the pain as great as ever. But she discovered upon rising that she could walk comfortably. Relinquishing her cane she walked home, although she had ridden to church.

Miss Toomey's family assert physicians who afterward examined the foot pronounced it normal again. Those experts included medical men who had previously treated the member. Miss Toomey is about 25.

1928 Plates

COLOR CHANGES TO GREEN

The first of the 1928 automobile registration plates were started in the mails to their owners today by Registrar of Motor Vehicles Frank A. Goodwin. Agnes M. Clancy, one of Registrar Goodwin's pretty clerks, says the green Massachusetts registry plate is both attractive and distinctive.

HENRY'S DREAM COMES TRUE, AND MORE

Well, you were a kid yourself once, and maybe it's a darn good thing that that's the limit of allotment. You'd never live through it twice. Which takes us up to the case of grinning Henry Mills, a Boston Evening American office boy of ideas, ambitions and a large center capacity, though not one, however, that cannot be strained. Today Henry's ambition is not so hot because he is entertaining an impressive pain northeast of his belt buckle. He tells you about it.

By HENRY MILLS.

Some of these guys think their wise and got the laugh on me because my brother and me finely ate a whole chicken and got filled up for once on chicken, but I'll have the laugh tomorrow, because I'll be alright.

How we decided to save up and buy a whole chicken for ourselves is what the city editor asked me to write. Well, this is how it was we thought up a long time ago it would be great to have our own chicken at Thanksgiving and so we started to save up.

Finally we got enough money saved up and we bought the chicken and when my mother saw it she said mercy you two ain't going to eat all that yourselves. We said we could eat it easy and she baked it.

When dinner time came we started on the chicken and it was a cracker and we ate it all with my mother saying all the time you can't eat all that you'll be sick.

I don't think we'll save up for another chicken because we got sick only I was sicker than my brother and I feel punk today. But I'll be alright tomorrow.

FORGET EVERYTHING AND FLY, BACKER TELLS GILES

Detroit, Nov. 25 (I.N.S.)—"Forget everything and fly!" is was the substance of a second telegram sent today to Capt. Frederick A. Giles, British aviator, by William H. Rosewarne, Detroit backer of the proposed flight of Giles to Australia by way of Hawaii.

The British aviator, incensed because his backer intimated he was seeking cheap and vulgar publicity," announced he would not fly until Rosewarne retracted the statement.

"I have nothing to apologize for," Rosewarne said, "But I do not want to appear to be discouraging Giles. I still have hopes he will succeed.

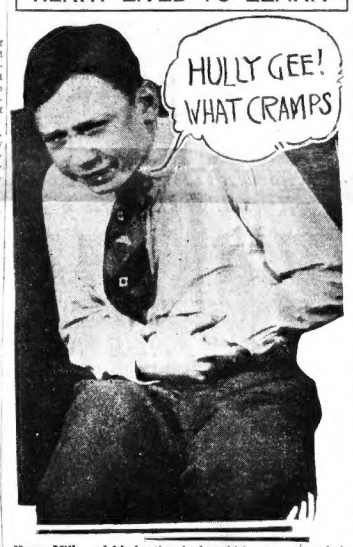
HENRY LIVED TO LEARN



Henry Mills and his brother had ambition to eat a whole chicken. Thanksgiving saw that ambition realized, but look at Henry today.

HUB DOCTOR IN 2,500 MILE RACE TO AID CARDINAL

Cardinal Bonzano, seriously ill in Rome, suffered a relapse shortly before the arrival there today of a prominent Boston physician, called more than 2,500 miles to his bedside.

Dr. John Spellman of Brighton arrived in Rome after a race across the Atlantic and the continent in response to a cablegram from the Vatican. He went immediately into consultation with the physicians who have been ministering to the prelate.

Two bulletins testified to Cardinal Bonzano's relapse. The latest gave his pulse as 120, his temperature 100 and his respiration 24, a marked weakening from the first statement. Strong cardic depression was noted.

The Dr. Spellman called to Rome is a brother of Dr. Martin Spellman of Commonwealth avenue and St. Elizabeth's Hospital, and also a brother of Rt. Rev. Mgr. Francis J. Spellman, attached to the Papal Secretary of the State's office for the past two years. Mgr. Spellman, is Assistant Secretary of State at the Vatican and in charge of Knights of Columbus work in Italy.

Dr. Spellman made the voyage alone, on short notice, his arrival in Rome was directly upon the heels of the announcement of the Cardinal's relapse. A New York physician, summoned at the same time, will arrive in Rome tomorrow.

DEAN OF BOSTON PUBLIC ACCOUNTANTS DEAD AT 81

Amos Dawes Albee, dean of Boston's public accountants, member of the Dickens Fellowship of Boston, of the Appalachian Mountain Club and head of the firm of Amos D. Albee, Son, & Co., died today at his home in Wollaston. He would have been 82 years old next March. A daughter, Miss Isobel L. Albee, and a son, Herbert H. Albee, an associate in the accounting firm, survive.

FIREMEN FREE MAN CAUGHT IN ELEVATOR

Firemen were called to No. 82 Newbury street today to release the hand of Robert Annis, 36, married, of Stanley street, Dorchester, caught in an elevator door. Annis was collecting laundry when his hand was caught. He was taken to the City hospital and later discharged after treatment for contusions of the left wrist.

WHAT CONVICTS FEARED

This drawing was made from descriptions of the mad scenes at Folsom Prison, California, where scores of mutinous prisoners captured four guards, armed themselves and barricaded the prison against attacking State forces. Officials were just preparing to bombard the place from airplanes when the convicts surrendered. Many were killed. The drawing shows the mob of intensely interested spectators gathered outside the prison gates as the battle raged. It is believed fear of certain death from the clouds caused the criminals to surrender.

CONVICTS SURRENDER IN PRISON REVOLT

the convicts had barricaded themselves ready for battle.

Commanding officers of the small army of guardsmen armed with rifles and tear gas, with airplanes and ranks at their disposal, said the water system at the prison was capable of flooding the buildings quickly.

How many guns and how much ammunition were in the possession of the barricaded convicts was undetermined until the truce came. The State had prepared to meet the hostilities from the cell house with machine gun bullets, buckshot and charges from two armored tanks and two or three one-pounders.

WILL PUNISH LEADERS.

The spokesman, for the surrendering prisoners, whose name was not revealed, pleaded for leniency for the rebellious convicts but Warden Smith refused to make promises in that direction.

The convicts then inquired what food would be given those who might be put into solitary confinement as the result of the outbreak. Upon being assured that prisoners so punished would be given one meal a day the rebels capitulated.

The four guards who had been held as hostages soon emerged laden with weapons, including two pistols, a number of knives and an axe, which the convicts surrendered.

The dead comprised nine convicts and two guards.

Warden Smith said late today that six alleged leaders in the outbreak will be charged with murder.

The six include Walter E. Burke, Sacramento theatre bandit, serving from five years to life for robbery, said to be a fugitive from Texas.

The other five are Anthony Brown, serving a 15-year term for a San Francisco robbery; Roy E. Stokes, serving for a Los Angeles burglary; James Gleason, serving five years to life for robbery; Albert A. Lewis, sentenced from Los Angeles for forgery, and James H. Greer, serving a life sentence for murder.

The outbreak started shortly before noon yesterday, and the 1200 men had nothing to eat since yesterday's breakfast. Obviously they were getting hungry, as all plans for serving a Thanksgiving dinner to them were quickly forgotten when the prison yard and cell house was turned into a battlefield.

GUARD THROWN OUT.

The State's forces feared that the convicts would carry out a previously announced threat to kill the imprisoned guards if any more machine gun fire were poured into the building. Gun fire were poured into the buildattack the cell house unless "forced to do so."

Originally five guards were held captive by the convicts, but during the night one of these was slugged and thrown out of the cell house with orders from the rebels to go to the hospital.

He was not seriously hurt.

The trouble started while the convicts were watching a Thanksgiving Day entertainment.

At a given signal they overruled the eight guards in the hall of the old cell house and started a break for liberty.

The break was frustrated by sheer luck because the key to the cell house door had been transferred from one turnkey to another.

One guard was killed on the spot, three others were wounded, one managed to get out and five of those in the cell house were held as host ages.

TROOPS RUSHED TO SCENE.

Warden Court Smith, who was trapped in his office when the siege began, his retreat cut off by snipers among the convict horde, took command of the situation by telephone and moved all available guards to the unwalled portion of the prison.

All available policemen from Sacramento, 25 miles distant, were called, and National Guardsmen were rushed to the scene.

Later in the day armed officers attacked the besieged convicts, but were repulsed when one of their number was wounded.

Some 200 rounds were fired in the first attack on the barricaded prisoners, the imprisoned men replying with an unknown number of guns which they had mysteriously acquired.

The convicts refused to consider a surrender at that time, although later notes were thrown from cell windows saying their ammunition was running low.

Governor C. C. Young arrived from Sacramento and aided in directing the seige early in he night.

More National Guardsmen, together with machine guns, airplanes, tanks, tear gas bombs and other instruments of modern warfare, arrived from Los Angeles and other points at dawn today.

The revolt is believed by prison authorities to have been planned for some time and have been intended to lead to a general delivery.

The warden expressed belief today that the weapons used in th outbreak had been smuggled in through "trusties."

Had it not been for these weapons in the hands of a few desperate men who intimidated the rest, the revolt would have been quelled soon after the first rioting occurred, the warden added.

Takes 100,000 Days a Year to Cross 42nd Street

New York, Nov. 23. (A.P.)—Time lost by pedestrians waiting for traffic signals at crosslings on 42nd street, one of the busiest throughfares in New York, is equivalent to 100,000 days a year. This was estimated today by the Merchants' Association and property owners on the street. They want an underground passage between Times square and the Grand Central station to relieve congestion.

ALL DRESSED UP AND A DATE HE MUST KEEP

Pat Hayes is in jail, and he's doing his bit in the soup and fish. Patrick Hayes, to give him his complete moniker, was preparing for a big Thanksgiving evening, and was all dressed in full evening clothes when Special Officer O'Connell of the Somerville police made an unexpected and decidedly unwelcome entrance.

Since 1924 there has been a warrant hanging over Pat's head charging him with failure to support his wife, Mary.

He made his appearance before Judge Fervant in Somerville District Court today in the open-faced raiment, admitted his guilt cheerfully, did not appeal, but went down to see Sheriff Fairbairn all dressed up and just one place to go.

REMUS' SISTER SOBS STORY OF HIS 'MURDER DAY'

Ryerson testified Remus replied, nodding her head in dejected manner in imitation.

Walter K. Sibbald, assistant prosecutor, led Mrs. Ryerson through a narration of the arrival of George Kling, driver of the death car, and Remus' departure with him.

"You knew something was going to happen that morning, didn't you, Mrs. Ryerson?" asked Sibbald.

Then the flood of tears and sobs Mrs. Ryerson had been suppressing let go.

She dropped her head on the brass railing about the witness stand and her shoulders heaved convulsively.

"No, I didn't. No, I didn't," she whispered between sobs.

Her sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Dobbrats of Chicago, who had sat quietly in the back row of courtroom seats, without her neighbors being aware of her identity, also burst into sobs.

Judge Shook declared a five-minute recess. He sent the jury from the courtroom. Calling Mrs. Ryerson to the bench alongside him he tried to console her, but Mrs. Ryerson still was weeping when she went back into the witness chair.

Ruth Remus, 20, pretty brunette, was to be today's star witness for the prosecution against her foster father.

On a beautiful Indian Summer morning, six weeks ago, she saw the man who legally adopted her run down her mother, Imogene Holmes Remus, and shoot her to death as she tried to save her life by flight through Eden Park.

Prosecutor Charles P. Taft, 2nd, depends upon the narrative of the young girl to clinch his direct case against the former Chicago lawyer who became the "king of bootleggers."

Ruth Remus tried to fight off the slayer. It was she who helped her fatally wounded mother struggle to her feet, and she assisted Mrs. Remus along the busy Eden Park boulevard. She supported her dying parent's head on her shoulder during the hysterical ride to the hospital and remained with Mrs. Remus to the last.

Elston indicated the cross-examination of Miss Remus would be brief.

That the defense's case would require at least two weeks, with Remus himself on the witness stand a week or more, was the indication today.

CHELSEA MAN HELD IN LOVE DEATH THREAT

Fred Bowles of No. 15 Congress avenue, Chelsea, is in a cell in Charles street jail today, awaiting trial on the charge of threatening to kill Albert Mitchell of Lynn who supplanted him, according to the police, in the affections of pretty Anna De Costa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter De Costa of North avenue, Revere.

Bowles was arraigned today before Judge Cutler in Chelsea District Court and when the case was continued for one week he was sent to jail in default of $5,000 bail.

According to the charges, Bowles lay in wait outside the De Costa home on Tuesday night until Anna returned from a dance with Mitchell in the Lynn man's car.

Bowles, according to the charge, leaned on the running board of the car and pointed a revolver at the boy and girl. He sent the girl into her home and then at gunpoint forced Mitchell to drive him to Chelsea square, threatening Mitchell, according to the latter's story, with death if he did not give up the De Costa girl.

Bowles reported the affair to the police and Mitchell was arrested Wednesday night.

OUSTED LOWELL ROOFER IS GRANTED HEARING

John E. Moynahan, Superintendent of Buildings in Lowell, must grant a hearing to John J. O'Brien, suspended roofer, by order of the Supreme Court. The full bench affirmed a decree of Judge Carroll granting the man a hearing ordering a writ of mandamus to be served on Moynahan compelling him to do so.

O'Brien was appointed as "an intermittent slate roofer," and was continuously employed for 22 months before his suspension. He asked for a hearing, but was refused.

FIND NEW WITNESS IN LILLIENDAHL CASE

Mays Landing, N. J., Nov. 25 (I.N.S.).—The appearance of an "important witness" discovered "in a small New York town" and said to have been an eyewitness to the murder of Dr. William Lilliendahl, for which the slain doctor's wife, Margaret, and her friend and neighbor, Willis Beach will go on trial here Monday, was promised by the State today.

Investigators have been searching for the "witness" since the commission of the crime. Mrs. Lilliendahl will take the stand in her own defense.

BANDITS WON'T BE IN SUCH BAD ODOR NOW

New York, Nov. 25 (I.N.S.).—A cargo of rare perfumes, valued at $20,000, was seized by three bandits today after they had kidnaped a truck driver for Coty, Inc., and exchanged several shots with a policeman.

The bandits made their escape in the dense traffic.

WOODIN IS ELECTED HEAD OF AMERICAN LOCOMOTIVE

New York, Nov. 25 (I.N.S.).—William H. Woodin, president of the American Car & Foundry Company today was elected president of the American Locomotive Company, succeeding the late Frederick F. Fitzpatrick.

HOLDUP MAN GETS $500 AT "BUSIEST CORNER"

New York, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—A robber who selected one of the busiest corners in the world for his operations today held up a cigar store at Fifth avenue and 42nd street and escaped with $500.

3 ARE SHOT DEAD IN OHIO FAMILY QUARREL

Painesville, Ohio, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Peter McCrory, forty-seven; Fred Cook, twenty-nine, and Alex Cook, twenty-six, are dead and Arthur McCrory, nineteen, son of Peter McCrory, is in a hospital with a bullet wound in the arm as a result of a shooting affray here today, said authorities to have been the outgrowth of domestic difficulties involving the elder McCrory.

Divorced Duchess Weds

Berlin, Nov. 25 (I.N.S.).—Duchess Sophie Charlotte of Oldenburg, the divorced wife of the former Prince Eitel Friedrich of Prussia, was married today to a retired captain of German cavalry, Harold Von Hedemann, at the Duchess' family estate at Rasteds.

Poison Liquor Knocks Out 22 in Hub Over Holiday

Through quick work on the part of the police and hospital physicians, all of the twenty-two made ill by poison liquor are expected to be out of danger today.

From 8 p. m. Thanksgiving eve there were 109 arrests for drunkenness.

Outside of that it was a quiet holiday for the police. The city prison was host to sixty-three persons during the night, fifty of them for drunkenness, and nearly all were let out on bail or released in the morning.

COMB SWAMPS FOR HUNTERS

Waterboro, Me., Nov. 25.—Members of the Maine National Guard today joined two big posses of police officials and woodsmen in the search for two hunters lost in the Great Swamps. One of the men is believed to be in the vicinity of West Waterboro, and the other near Moody pond.

While a hastily formed crew of 100 or more was seeking a man believed to be Charles Cheney in the eastern woods a report was received that another man had been heard calling for help and firing a rifle back of Moody pond. Calls were sent out for volunteers to go in search of him.

Borzage to Direct New 'Blossom Time' Film

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS.

Los Angeles, Nov. 25.—Whitfield Sheehan believes he has picked another winner. At least, he feels it ought to be a winner in the case with some of the Fox Company's best efforts. He has completed arrangements with the Shuberts giving him the screen privileges of "Blossom Time."

I hardly think it is necessary to explain that "Blossom Time," supposedly based on the life of Franz Shubert, is one of the most tuneful light operas ever written. It really is a light opera rather than a musical comedy. The purchase was made with Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell in mind. They will be directed by Frank Borzage, who understands their youthful temperament so well that he made them both famous in "Seventh Heaven."

Gloria Swanson gets "Sunny." She is returning to California with Joseph Schenck's promise that she may make "Sunny" after she finishes "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney." Constance Talmadge was supposed to have starred in "Sunny," with David Wark Griffith directing, but Mr. Griffith was never sold on the idea of this musical comedy as a picture and when he expressed his wish to be relieved from directing it, that automatically eliminated Connie.

Old Doc Spence was called in by Richard Rowland to help title "Helen of Troy" and he did such a deft job that "Helen" gets in the Globe Theatre on Broadway. Dick Rowland and Clayton Hawley, new head of First National, were sure that all the picture needed was a few delicate titles that would put over the necessary satire. They were right, apparently, for the picture was well received at a preview Tuesday night. Gerald Duffy also furnished part of the titles.

A number of our foreign players are planning to eat Christmas dinner at the home fireside. Lars Hanson, with his wife, sails for Sweden Dec. 7, to spend the Yuletide there. He is not returning for three months—a nice little vacation and one that he has earned, considering the number of films in which he appeared this year. His wife was formerly a well known stage beauty of Sweden and at one time was Victor Seastrom's leading woman. The Hansens have a home in New York today.

Engagements in Hollywood need not be taken too seriously. In fact, an engagement need never be considered important until a marriage actually takes place. Buster Collier had all the newspaper reporters camping on his trail for his approaching marriage to Dorothy McCarthy. It is my personal and private opinion that Buster and Constance Talmadge had had a quarrel, therefore the rush to the license clerk. Maybe I'm wrong, but Connie and her mother gets here next week and then we shall see.

SIR NEVILLE PEARSON IS GRANTED DIVORCE

London, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Sir Neville Arthur Pearson, British newspaper owner, today was granted a divorce from Lady Pearson on the ground of misconduct. The case was not defended.

Sir Neville is the son of the late Sir C. Arthur Pearson, founder of St. Dunstan's home for blind ex-veterans, himself blind. Lady Pearson was the former Mary Moss, daughter of Sir Alfred Mond.

GAS FOR ALL USES

The hundreds of Boston home-owners who have already installed "heat by pipe line" would never go back to boiler-work-and-worry heating. And neither will you when once you know the comfort, cleanliness, reliability and all-around satisfaction of Automatic Gas Heating.

If the most clean and scrub—make the work lighter, quicker, more thorough, with plenty of hot water in bath, kitchen, basement. A Gas Water Heater is so easy to have—so hard to do without. Installed on trial, if you prefer. Terms will suit you, too.

Don't put up with an out-of-date cooking range another day. The time and food an old cook stove wastes would soon pay for a modern Gas Range. In short, if you use gas for any purpose—why not for all? Gas is cheaper, better, more convenient in the long run—for all uses. Come in and talk it over.

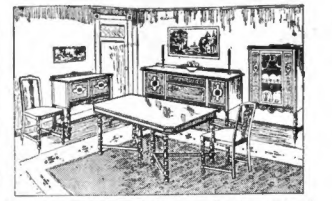
Week End Specials at Savings Prices

For fifty-three years we have gladdened the hearts of our customers by selling them dependable merchandise at reasonable prices and on terms of their own making.
You are invited to become one of our happy family of friendly customers.



IN this suite, price and quality meet, but price suffers. It is well built of walnut veneer on gumwood, and is beautifully finished. Two chairs are included, as shown, but you may have as many side chairs as you need at $5.45 each. Buffet was $58.00, now $36.00—China Cabinet was $39.00, now $26.50—Table was $44.00, now $29.85—Server was $22.00, now $15.75—Arm Chair was $13.75, now $8.95—Chairs were $8.75, now $5.45 122.50

MASSIVE, yet graceful in the extreme, is this beautiful suite of Walnut veneer on solid Gumwood. It is shown in the increasingly popular antique finish, and bids fair to outsell any suite we have offered. 66" Buffet 74.00, China 56.00, Table (42"x58") 64.00, Server 32.00, Tapestry-Seat Chairs 10.75 each, Arm Chair 14.75. The six pieces shown..... 251.50

THIS graceful suite of three pieces will indeed surprise you. It is thoroughly good, inside and out. It has full spring construction—both in backs and seats. The fibre and cotton filling is new and sanitary. The covering is a rich Jacquard Velour—genuine Jacquard Velour, with the sides and outside backs in a plain Velour to match. Positively the best value we ever offered. Regular price $178, but marked for this week at 129.50

A Space-saving Combination

MAKE an extra guest room of your living room. This beautiful davenport opens to a full sized, comfortable bed. It has easy, restful springs in seats and back. The filling is new and sanitary and the covering is a rich Jacquard Velour. Any of the pieces will be sold separately. Davenport was $137, now $98. Chair was $43, now $31.50. Wing Chair was $45, now $32.50..... 162.00

THE best value we ever offered. Matched veneers of American walnut combined with gumwood in hand-rubbed finish lend an air of distinction difficult to approach in other woods and in this suite the richness is enhanced by the contrasting overlays. Dresser $9.50, Chest of Drawers $4.00, Full Vanity $8.50, Bed $4.00. Sold complete for..... 183.00

HERE is a very neat and attractive suite at an exceptionally low price. It is well built of walnut veneer on gumwood. The drawers are full depth and slide smoothly. BOYS' CLUBS ARE CALLED AID IN WAR ON CRIME

"It is our belief that it is better to build the boy than mend th man," said George Bramwell Baker, president of the Boston Boys' Club today as he welcomed more than 100 New England delegates of the Federation of Boys' Clubs to the conference in the Charlestown branch.

"The growth of the movement to give our boys a chance is a work for which we might well be proud.

"Our organization, starting thirty-five years ago with a mere half dozen members, sees us today with a membership of 5,300."

He told the delegates of the improvements at the Roxbury Boys' Club and outlined plans for further growth in Boston.

CLUBS SAVING YOUTHS

William E. Hall of New York pres.dent of the Federation of Boys' Clubs, gave an address to the delegates, admonishing them that the ultimate solution of the crime problems will come from taking care of boys and young men by attracting them from the glamor of street corner gangs.

"In one of the worst districts of Chicago," he said, "a Boys' Club was located by the Federation and an actual account of arrests as compare with the previous year showed a reduction of 73 per cent."

He said the organization shows a tota. of 274 clubs in 193 cities in the country with a membership of 225,000, an increase of more than 100 per cent. in the last seven years.

Charles F. Weed, vice-president of the First National Bank of Boston, another speaker, told of the value of boys' clubs as a business investment

ON BUSINESS BASIS

"The work is to be praised," he said.

"Few persons know the great demand for boys and young men, products of these clubs."

He compared the conduct of the Federation with the running of a big organization and told the delegates the necessity for doing their work on a business basis, keeping within their budgets and continuing the unbuilding of the boys in the community.

Other speakers included Elliot Wadsworth, who advised them on raising funds and endowments; Rev. George P. O'Connor, director of the Catholic Charitable Bureau; Edward J. O'Mara, probation officer of the Boston juvenile court, and Richard S. Teeling, secretary-Treasurer of the Boston Boy's Club.

Gas Kills Three Sisters

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 25 (A.P.)—Three elderly sisters were found dead from illuminating gas today in their kitchen. A jet was found to be leaky. The sisters are Miss Geneva Drum, 80; Miss Grace Drum, 68, and Miss Susan Drum, 66. The coroner reported the deaths as accidental.

JAMES MOORE

Massachusetts youth, saved once from jail sentence for sleeping in subways to save room rent, has been barred from New York's municipal lodging house. He slept there four nights before they learned he had $400 in bank.

VAN LOON'S WIFE IS ROBBED

New York, Nov. 25 (A.P.)—Frances Goodrich, wife of Hendrix Willem Van Loon, author, was revealed today as the victim of Thanksgiving Day robbers who looted her apartment of jewelry and clothing.

Miss Goodrich, as she prefers to be known, maintains her own apartment while her husband lives in another.

The apartment was entered, she said, while she was attending a Thanksgiving celebration with her husband.

PIN BREAKS ON MAN, WOMAN

A fraternity pin belonging to a Dorchester man and found with other loot in an apartment in Green street, Cambridge, said by police to have been occupied by Harry Cefola and Mrs. Margaret Melseas, pretty divorcee, caused Cambridge police to belive the couple, charged specifically with robbing the home of Mrs. Mary Lancaster at No. 37 Essex street, Cambridge, were responsible for a number of breaks in Dorchester and other parts of Greater Boston.

They were arrested by Captain Canney and Special Officer McLaughlin of the Central square division.

Loot included many expensive dresses, woman's watches, rings and other jewelry, and men's clothing.

The police from various stations hurried to Cambridge to look over the prisoners and the articles found, word of the arrest and descriptions were sent to Chicago and New York for Cefola had addresses in his pocket which led the police to believe the couple may have been in those cities.

Weather Man Bets His Whiskers It'll Be a Mild Winter

Gloucester, N. J., Nov. 25 (A.P.)—Gloucester's "own" weather prophet, John Walmsley, believes it will be an uncommonly mild Winter.

There are two outstanding signs upon which Walmsley, whose predictions are taken seriously here, bases his forecast. One is all the hornets' nests he has seen are low, showing the hornets know the weather will be mild with little snow, and the jumping of frogs from streams to the banks, which he says never happens in advance of cold weather, is the other.

$1,000,000 JOB LET BY STATE

Bids on the largest single job ever undertaken by the State were opened today at the State House. They were bids on construction of an administration building, employes' building and three-ward building, to be part of the new State Hospital in Walpole.

Horse Beater Fined

For his alleged beating of two horses, one blind, Walter Burk of Columbia street, Cambridge, was fined $20 today in East Cambridge Court by Judge Arthur P. Stone.

BOY STABBED IN HEART LIVES

Springfield, Nov. 25 (A.P.)—With a knife wound in his heart, inflicted October 23 when he was attacked by two boys, Arthur Pomeroy, eighteen, is astonishing hospital physicians by his steady progress toward recovery.

An X-ray examination today showed continued good condition. Though terribly weakened by loss of blood and pronounced fatally hurt, the boy is likely to survive.

Alexander White and Louis Chambers, both fourteen, are held for the attack.

'WALES' AT HUB CANARY SHOW; SOME BIRD!

"The Prince of Wales" arrived at Horticultural Hall from Rome, N. Y., all ruffled up for the opening of the eleventh annual exhibition of canaries and other birds today.

He occupies a handsome brass cage with plate glass, hand-painted door, and is the center of interest among hundreds of other beautiful birds. His plumage is orange and his slender body is six inches long. Of course, the Prince of Wales is from Yorkshire, England, one of the famous strain of imported fancies exhibited by R. F. Riches of Rome, N. Y., who is also exhibiting the crested canary, rare in this country, and "the bird of Wales," which is the native Scotch canary called the Glasgow Don, bred for head down and tail curved under the perch to form a semi-circle.

WHITE CANARY.

Another rare bird is shown by William Barry of Charlestown, who was the first to show a pure white canary in Boston during the snow bat year. This season Mr. Barry exhibits a cross between the white canary and a Yorkshire which is attracting favorable comment among other breeders. He is bending his talents now to breeding a pure white Yorkshire which he hopes to exhibit within three years, he said.

The white canary was first shown in London at the Crystal Palace in 1901, but the difficulty of crossing this strain will preclude it ever becoming common in the opinion of those exhibitors who tried it. They have a sweet roller song which, with the snowy plumage, will make them the ideal bird if they can be produced, breeders declare.

IN TWO CLASSES.

The birds shown are of two classes, the border fancies, so called because they are produced on the border of England and Scotland, for color, shape and plumage, and the song sters, which are kept in darkened cages until the judging because they so quickly imitate the harsh sounds of their more beautiful relatives on the show benches. Of these the Silvert Rollers are said to be the sweetest singers because their song is low and very musical. Other fine singers include the St. Andreasburg, Hartz Mountain and Utility singers.

This grand champion canary of all classes will be awarded the cup of the Massachusetts Cage Bird Association at the close of the show tomorrow evening. Several silver cash ribbon and special prizes will be awarded.

strument, NOT a commercial undertaking."

We might feel foolish, fifty years hence, discovering that we had financed unification of Asia for Japan.

A united Asia, directed by Japanese ability, might make this country think hard.

The American soldier had his Thanksgiving Day turkey allowance increased yesterday from one pound to one pound and three-quarters for each man by order of President Coolidge.

The President had 100 pounds of fine turkeys sent him by friends, and probably ate three ounces, not counting to overload his stomach.

The Engineers Club in New York celebrated, with Thanksgiving, the anniversary of John Ericsson's landing in America from Denmark. Ericsson, you remember, invented and built the Monitor, at first ridiculed as a "cheese box."

That cheese box destroyed the Merrimac, turning the tide of the Civil War.

If another Ericsson should come he would be asked, "Have you not read our immigration laws? Don't you know we need no Europeans?

No war is more horrible than a religious war, as illustrated now in Mexico.

Four men, one a priest, were executed by shooting on Wednesday, following alleged confessions by all four that they had plotted to murder Obregon, candidate for President.

The Catholic priest, Rev. Miguel Agustin Projuaros, died first, at his own request, setting an example of courage to the others. Asked if he had any last request, he replied: "I beg you to let me pray." He knelt, praying, with a crucifix held before him, and then, standing with his face to the firing squad, he was shot as he made the sign of the cross. A sergeant gave him the "coup de grace," sending a pistol bullet into his temple.

PRESIDENT'S PASTOR MAY BE SENATE'S CHAPLAIN

Washington, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—The latest candidate to be put forth for chaplain of the Senate, a post made vacant by the recent death of the Rev. J. J. Muir, is the Rev. Jason Noble Pierce, pastor of the First Congregational Church, which President and Mrs. Coolidge attend.

The TOURAINE STORES have become one of the largest distributors of gloves and hosiery in the United States—and, we believe, the largest in New England. There is no mystery, no magic in this leadership—it has been gained by giving consistent value—not now and then, not during "Sales"—but day in and day out, every business day of the year. The women of New England have come to know that Touraine prices for Touraine quality are seldom, if ever, equaled

20,000 AT BIER OF EXECUTED PRIEST

Mexico City, Nov. 24 (A. P.)—(Delayed).—Probably 20,000 persons, making one of the largest crowds known at any funeral in Mexico, today witnessed the funerals of Fr. Miguel Augustin Pro Juarez, Catholic priest, and three companions executed Wednesday for an attempt against the life of former President Obregon.

No religious rites were performed at the graves of any of the four executed men. If any priests were present, they were in civilian dress and did not perform publicly any of the rites of their church. Two thousands of spectators chanted religious anthems and said their rosaries as the bodies were lowered into the graves.

Three of the men were buried on a hilltop near the Guadalupe shrine, which is so consecrated by tradition to the hearts of Mexican Catholics. These three were the priest, his brother, Humberto, and Juan Tirado.

The fourth body, that of Luis Segura Vilchis, was buried in another cemetery.

UNOFFICIAL WETS IN HOUSE GETTING BUSY

Washington, Nov. 25 (A. P.)—The unofficial House committee for modification of the Volstead act will become active immediately upon the convening of Congress, it was learned here today.

Representative Linthicum, Democrat, Maryland, the chairman.

The Maryland member plans to appoint an executive committee of six or seven wets to recruit for the unofficial body. He expects its membership to be about the same.

TEXAS, LOOKING FOR DEAD BANDITS ONLY, GETS ONE

Ottawa, Tex., Nov. 25 (A. P.)—The first bank robber to die in a war declared by the Texas Bankers' Association which offered $5,000 reward for "dead bandits only," fell in duel with officers here shortly after dawn.

The bandit and a companion were discovered trying to enter the Citizens' National Bank. Sheriff Reed and Walter and Hiram Coffman opened fire. One bandit fell dead and the other dropped with wounds physicians said would prove fatal.

RIVER VICTIM IS STILL UNKNOWN

Raynham, Nov. 25.—Albin Leonard of Raynham Center denied today that he had identified his daughter, Mrs. Byron Pierce, the woman believed drowned November 11 at Wilsonville, Ct., when the automobile of Jerome Nickelson of Watertown dove into the Mianus River.

The Raynham Center man said his daughter has not been home for nine time, and that she had separated from her husband, but he asserted that he has made no identification.

Mrs. Pierce's six-year-old daughter is living with her grandparents, however. Neighbors of the Leonards said they have not seen the young wife and mother at the Leonard home since Labor Day.

Love's Blind Folly

(Above)—"And as my house of dreams had come crashing down, wrecking my happiness, blighting my life, while I sat as one turned to stone, into what a hideous thing that folly of mine had been distorted. Then I was gripped with a new and more terrible fear that made my heart stand still with terror." (From "The World Never Forgets," December True Story Magazine.)

REARED in the quiet seclusion of a fine old southern home—sheltered, protected, carefully guarded from all knowledge of the world and its ways—Elizabeth, at twenty, suddenly found herself thrust upon that world, ill-prepared to cope with the real problems of life.

It was in far-away Nevada, where she went to teach school, that she first found a freedom such as she had never known. There was no one to watch over her, none to question her comings and goings, none to whom she had to account for what she did.

This was the situation when Allan Crawford, the town's young Lothario, came into her life. He was a handsome fellow, with the gentle ways that delight the hearts of women. Often at night they would wander together through the wonderful desert moonlight. Elizabeth learned the poignant sweetness of stolen kisses and embraces. Gradually the conviction forced itself upon her that she was deeply in love.

That there were ugly whisperings going on around her: that young men on the street-corners leered at her and exchanged sly remarks as she passed, she neither knew nor cared. In her innocence and ignorance, she would not have understood the language of scandal, even had it reached her ears.

And so love's happiness blossomed in her soul more wonderfully hour by hour. Then one day came the awakening—an awakening that stupefied her senses, turned her heart into ice, extinguished her bright love dreams in a pit of darkness, and loosed a cyclone of terror and grief in her soul.

Had Fate been content to teach Elizabeth this one bitter lesson, she might have fought down her sorrow in some new arena of life. But the tragedy which had engulfed her was only just beginning. She had yet to be tried in the fires of retribution, and to endure agonies of soul and body such as she had never dreamed.

Elizabeth's startling story, "The World Never Forgets," appears complete in True Story Magazine for December. It is a story of error and of struggle for redemption that no man or woman can afford to miss.

(Above)—"WE WERE DESPERATELY IN LOVE"—Lois most other small-town flappers, Marjorie imagined she knew all there was to know about life—until, for the first time, she fell seriously in love. Then began a terrific conflict of hearts that taught her a lesson she will never forget. (See "Nature's Revenge," December True Story Magazine.)

(Above)—"DON'T LET FATHER KNOW," she warned—Driven into a life of reckless adventure by an old family code which forbade him ever to see again the girl of his dreams—fate brought them together again in the African jungle and started as strange a drama as man and woman ever were called on to play. (See "A Moment of Uncertainty," True Story for December.)

(Left)—"DON'T EXPECT ME HOME 'TILL MORNING," she cried—and was gone. Petted, pampered, spoiled from babyhood, Peggy grew to young womanhood convinced that good times and exciting havoc with hearts were the only things worth living for. But disaster lay ahead, as she mercifully describes in "Vanity's Victim," December True Story.

Only Real Life Can Produce Such Thrilling Stories

LET the poet, the dramatist, the novelist make their finest flights of fancy, they can never equal the thrilling realism of life itself.

Every day, every hour, there are great human dramas unfolding that belittle the imaginative products of the cleverest pens.

From fifteen to twenty of these real-life stories appear in True Story Magazine every month. If they are startling in their nature, it is because life itself is startling. If they thrill the reader, it is because human experience is packed with thrills. The secrets that lie hidden in the heart are the secrets most worth telling. It is only by peering behind the veil of human thought and action that we discover the eternal failure of evil and the eternal triumph of good.

(Above)—"I WHIPPED OUT MY '.04' . . . CORA SCREAMED"—No matter how weak and foolish a boy may be, when he meets the right girl, anything can happen. Formerly a coward in all his acts, he hidden streak of heroism was suddenly revealed in a moment of frightful peril. "The Girl Who Made Me," in December True Story, is another one of those fascinating true-life chronicles that you can't forget.

$24,000.00 for TRUE STORIES

Following its annual custom, True Story is again offering its readers generous cash prizes for true stories from their own lives. Almost everyone has such a story to tell—perhaps you have, too. If so, this is the time to try to cash in on one of those prizes which range from $500.00 up to $1,000.00 each. Rewards like these justify your best efforts. Full particulars may be found in the December issue of True Story Magazine.

(Above)—SUDDENLY THE ROOM BEGAN TO "WHIRL"—Jerry was born "tough." His boyhood associates were bad. Before he was out of his teens he had vanished into the shadowy depths of the underworld. The startling story of his life is the dark narrations of wickedness and crime and his desperate struggle to redeem himself in the eyes of the world is one of the most gripping true-life narratives ever written. It is told in "The Salvation of a Bank Burglar," December True Story Magazine.

FURS

One Year to Pay

Thirty-Five Years of Square Dealing with the Public

Not one customer can point their finger at us and say that we ever deceived them in the way of honest values for honest dollars.

FUR QUESTIONS ANSWERED

What is meant by the term "Burnt skins," used in the construction of fur coats?

ANSWER

Skins whose pelt of leather is so thin and delicate that they burn with the acids used during the process of dyeing and dressing.

Bear in mind that the fur is never affected, and always looks just as good as a super quality skin. Even the furrier cannot tell the difference as far as looks and feeling is concerned; then how are you expected to know the difference?

DO ALL SKINS BURN?

Every known skin will burn when the pelt or leather is weak and delicate, and we assure you that there are thousands and thousands of them, namely, Dyed Muskrat, Hudson Seal, Opossum, Mink, Nutria, Beaver, Rabbit, Caracul, Natural Muskrat, Squirrels, Foxes, Wolves, Leopards, Kolinskys, etc., etc., and I might add forty other names, all of which burn during the process of dyeing and dressing.

What Becomes of Burnt Skins?

Are they discarded, which would cause the manufacturers untold losses, or are they used in the construction of the so-called price coat? I will leave this for every intelligent reader of this advertisement to answer for themselves.

BARNUM

You all know Barnum's proverb, and those who don't know, I will leave it to their most vivid imagination.

LET US ASSIST YOU

In selecting quality, then your investment will be protected, and our reputation for square dealings will have one more satisfied customer added to our list because of the fact that the test of time will prove that she has received honest values for honest dollars.

GUARANTEE

Our money-back guarantee is given with every Dolan coat, and a $500 reward in gold is offered to any person who can prove that Chas. P. Dolan & Son ever bought, sold or offered for sale one coat manufactured from burnt skins.

WELCOME

You are always welcome whether you purchase or not to come in and look over our tremendous stock, and compare our prices with coats of similar quality, elsewhere.

LADY GODIVA IS UNHORSED! NOW PICTURE THAT!

Chicago, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Lady Godiva, unhorsed from legend by the exigencies of modern life will pose in a gilt frame at the arts ball tonight instead of repeating the riding act which got her Page 1 prominence in the Saxon journals of 1040, A. D.

Miss Rosalind Hightower, a Detroit artist, will take the part of the lady who rode through the streets of Coventry in the economic interests of her taxridden constituency. She answers to the following Godivian specifications: Age, twenty one, slender, slightly over medium height, pretty and crowned with hair of golden blonde.

COMES BY AIRPLANE.

Quite unlady Godiva-like did Miss Hightower come to town. No prancing charger for her. An airplane, no less. But, the arts ball committee decided out the scene of tonight's affair is supposed to be the year 2000 A. D., so the Godiva legend had to be edited for the occasion.

The reporters who popped questions concerning Lady Godiva at A. N. Rebori, head of the entertainment committee, were interested in Miss Hightower's golden hair.

"Is it—?" they chorused.

"It certainly is," replied Rebori "One might say it was knee plus ultra."

"We engaged Miss Hightower," he went on, "because of her wonderful golden hair and all-around pulchritude."

Then the pestering press shunted its inquisition toward Miss Hightower.

ART WILL BE SERVED!

"How will you appear?" inquired one journalist, bolder than his fellows.

"In a frame," Miss Hightower answered.

"Then you won't ride a horse, like Lady Godiva?" pursued the preasman.

"She will not," injected Rebori. "Traffic in the grand ball room will be too congested. Art will be served equally well without a prancing charger."

KRESGE, JUNIOR PAYS RUM FINE

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 25 (I.N.S.).—Howard C. Kresge, son of S. S. Kresge, Anti-Saloon League supporter and 5-and-10-cent store "king," today paid a $55 penalty to the United States customs collector for bringing liquor into the country illegally.

Customs officers found 11 quarts of liquor concealed in Kresge's car when he and two companions, said to be fraternity brothers, drove off the Windsor ferryboat to the Detroit dock.

Kresge was assessed at the rate of $5 per quart of liquor. The liquor was confiscated.

SCHOOLBOOK TRIAL WITHOUT DEFENDANT

Chicago, Nov. 25.—The William McAndrew trial, which has developed into a forum for the exposition of what the prosecution calls pro-British influences in the schools, will be without a defendant next week, unless the school board yields to McAndrew's ultimatum that he will remain away until it takes up the specific charges against him.

The suspended superintendent of schools walked out of the hearing asserting he would not come back unless the alleged lack of insubordination is considered.

POLICE LEGIONNAIRES INSTAL NEW OFFICERS

The newly elected officers of the Boston police post, American Legion, will be installed by State Commander Peter W. Rich of the Massachusetts department at Celebonian Hall 53 Berkeley street.

The officers-elect are John J. Casey, commander; Arthur Pelletier, first vice-commander; Alex Neeky, second vice-commander; Warren C. Perkins, adjutant; John M. White, finance officer; Henry A. Cook, chaplain; John L. Finential, historian, and John J. Noonan, sergeant-at-arms.

ANIMAL RESCUE LEAGUE FAIR TO OPEN DECEMBER 5

At the Animal Rescue League Christmas Fair, which is to take place at the Copley-Plaza Ball Room on December 5 and 6, the calendar table, which has always been a special feature, will be one of the attractive tables again this year.

Many of the calendars will present pictures of the various phases of the League work,—fine dogs and cats that have been placed in good homes, horse paddocks, and picturesque spots in the Cemetery at Pine Ridge, Dedham.

SHERIFF IS FREED OF FLOGGING CHARGE

Luverne, Ala., Nov. 25.—Defeated in his first attempt to convict a member of the Crenshaw County's band of alleged floggers, State Attorney Charlie C. McCall tonight was ready to proceed with the trial of the second of thirty-three defendants at the bar.

Shelby Gregory, accused of being one of five men who kidnapped a negro and whipped her, was acquitted by a jury today.

WOMAN ADDRESSES SPANISH PARLIAMENT

Madrid, Nov. 25.—For the first time in the history of Spain a woman has spoken before parliament. The heroine of the occasion is the Marquise De La Rambla, who at a session of the assembly, interpolated the minister on education on the question of teaching religion in the schools. LINER FLOATS OFF REEF

New York, Nov. 25.—The Ward liner Mexico, which struck a shoal a mile and a half from the harbor entrance at Vera Cruz, Mexico, early today, was clear and headed for the harbor under her own power. Ward Line officials told the Associated Press.

Radio advises from Captain McInnes, master of the vessel, said that the Mexico, out of New York for Tampico, grounded on a reef, slightly damaging her bow, but was delayed only a short time.

The liner carried between 150 and 200 persons.

Chicago Girls Spend 104 lion for Cotton for Silk

Chicago, Nov. 25 (A.P.)—Chicago consumers in for cotton over sixteenfold the consumption of the two commodities in industrial survey of the city by United States Bureau.

Of cotton since than $104,000,000 worth sold in 1926, while the ancill for silks was only $10,000,0

The total set dry goods and notions for that were 5 per cent. of the $1000,000 sales of all Chicago's wholesale houses combined.

WOMAN TAKES POISON; DYING

In a dying condition from bichloride of mercury tablets, Mrs. Hilda Ostberg, 49, of Cornell street, West Roxbury, was rushed to Forest Hills Hospital today where her name was placed on the danger list.

Mrs. Ostberg took the tablets at her home in an attempt at suicide, according to the police, she having been in ill health for some time.

Good jobs do not walk the street. They are listed in the Boston American Classified Ads. See Help Wanted—Classifications 30 and 98.

C. R. FORBES IS COMING HOME TO MOTHER

Leavenworth, Kan., Nov. 25 (A.P.)—Charles R. Forbes, former director of the United States Veterans' Bureau, will be released from the federal penitentiary here at midnight tonight upon completion of his sentence of defrauding the government in the letting of veterans hospital contracts.

In preparing today to check out of the prison, the 49-year-old prisoner revealed that he expects to take up his old profession of civil engineering after a brief rest.

"I will give him a recommendation," said Warden T. B. White. "He has worked harder than any one in prison. I have seen him drive nails and erect timbers with the skill of an expert carpenter."

An unnamed friend will meet Forbes when he steps from the prison gate, and it is expected they will motor to Kansas City where the former Veterans' Bureau director will board a train for Plymouth, Mass., home of his 82-year-old mother.

After resting in Plymouth for several weeks, he plans to go to Washington. He said he expects to write for a time and may reply to some of the charges against him through this medium.

Outdoor construction work has brought back the glow of health to Forbes' cheeks and the only traces of recent attacks of illness are snow white hair and a slight limp.

PAIR OF TROUSERS STARTS HOTEL FURORE

A pair of trousers, two scantily-clad men and three members of Police Captain Livingston's "flying squad," all were involved in a West End hotel mystery, it appeared today when George Hamilton, former taxi driver, drew a year in the House of correction as instigator of the furore.

Officers Kenny, McDonald and Canney of the police night squad told Judge Creed they were called to the hotel by a nephew of Winfred Corbett, guest. The nephew was attired in bathrobe and Corbett was searching the corridor near his room, clad in pajamas, when they arrived.

Search for the trousers ended at the fire escape outside Hamilton's room. His arrest followed. A record against Hamilton dating back twelve years was shown in court.

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE WILL START ON MONDAY

A knight in armor, accompanied by two heralds, will deliver the first Christmas seal of the season tomorrow morning at 11:30 to the Lieutenant Governor at the State House. The troupe will leave No. 554 Columbus avenue, headquarters of the Boston Tuberculosis Association.

The Christmas seal, newly designed every season, is this year the work of John M. Evans, of New York, and shows a Santa with his [illegible] against a bright blue sky. Beginning Monday, seals will be on sale in thirty nine booths scattered throughout the city in the local post-offices and stores.

TWO VETERANS OF B. & A. RETIRED ON PENSIONS

The Boston & Albany Railroad has pensioned two veteran employes, both of whom have taken advantage of the rule permitting employes who have 40 years or more of continuous service to apply for a pension at the age of 65 years.

Fred A. Field, passenger conductor on the Albany Division, has a pension effectual November 1. He entered the service of the B. & A. as a freight handler at North Adams March 18, 1885. He resides at No. 117 River street, Adams.

Also effective November 1, William P. Tilden has been pensioned. He entered the service of the B. & A. September 20, 1855, as a freight brakeman at West Springfield. Mr. Tilden resides in Palmer.

SOVIET FEARS POLAND THREATENS LITHUANIA

Moscow, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Fear that Lithuanian independence may be menaced by an overt act brought about by Polish imperialists is expressed here. A friendly reason stance has been sent by the Soviet government to Warsaw.

The presence of Marshal Pilsudski, Polish Premier, and some of his ministers at Vilna is one of the reasons for the Russian warning. The official explanation is that the Premier went there to prepare the Polish case for presentation in the League of Nations in the Polish-Lithuanian dispute.

BRATIANI READY TO DIE; HAD CASKET ON HAND

Bucharest, Rumania, Nov. 25 (A.P.)—The late Premier Bratianu had a premonition of death—so strong that he had his coffin built some time ago.

The Premier directed a peasant carpenter to make a pine coffin for him, giving the man precise measurements. The peasant hid the coffin in the belfry of the little country church Bratianu had himself built.

SLAY HUNDREDS IN NEW EUROPE WAR THREAT

the dispatch said, while a meeting at Kishineff of the Rumanian-Russian mixed commission was cancelled because of the disturbances.

Dispatches say the garrisons at Odessa, Tiraspol, Noghiley and other cities have passed into the hands of "revolutionists, who everywhere are gaining ground in Southern Russia."

Daily struggles between revolutionists and troops woo remained loyal to the government were reported in the dispatches.

At Kamenz-Podolsk, the authorities were stated to be barricaded in all public institutions. The revolutionists held power for two days, but upon the arrival of Soviet reinforcements, the government reconquered the town. The streets were stated to be strewn with hundreds of dead and wounded.

Paris, Nov. 25 (A.P.)—The passing of Premier Bratianu of Rumania from the European political scene will have a far reaching effect on the entire European situation, in the opinion of French observers.

The whole system of the Rumanian government rested on the late Premier and because of the political inexperience of the leaders of the various parties a long and difficult crisis seems to be inevitable.

This causes undisguised anxiety since Rumania is situated between countries dissatisfied with present treaties. Russia claims Bessarabia which was handed over to Rumania by the peace treaties, Bulgaria and Hungary are agitating also for the division of those treaties and the return of the territory which they formerly held, but which was granted to Rumania. The hope is expressed that the various political parties will sink their differences and come to an agreement.

Troops Out to Block Carol in Maneuvre for Throne

Bucharest, Rumania, Nov. 25 (A.P.)—Rumania was in the midst of a new political crisis today because of the death of Premier Ionel Bratianu. Because of the uncertain atmosphere, the guard in the capital was trebled and troops throughout the country were ordered to stand by to deal with any demonstrations by supporters of former Crown Prince Carol. Bratianu, who dominated Rumania for more than a quarter of a century, was more than any other individual responsible for the removal of Carol from the right of succession to the throne.

Wire Carol to Return; Wife May Flee With Boy King

Paris, Nov. 25 (A.P.)—The continental edition of the London Daily Mail says one of the first acts, at the death of Premier Bratiinu, of the opposition parties, which wish former Crown Prince Carol to withdraw his renunciation of the throne was to telegraph him to return to Bucharest.

It is understood a great step was taken toward effecting the return of Carol and a reconciliation between him and the royal family.

Whether the death of Bratianu will help Carol's return, is debated here. Many persons informed on Rumanian matters say Carol was only used as a stalking horse by the opposition in the hope of overthrowing Bratianu. Since that has been accomplished by the hand of death, they argue the championship of Carol may become lukewarm or vanish.

Vintila Bratianu, younger brother of Ionel, was quickly appointed Premier by the regency which rules for the 6-yearold King Michael. He was asked to preside until Sunday, when a full national funeral for his brother will be held, despite the latter's dying wish for the simplest of burials.

KING MICHAEL

With the death of Premier Bratianu, Prince Carol's bitterest foe, the crown of Rumania's boy king rests uneasy. Carol is expected to return home.

MEMORY LOST, WOMAN STRAYS EIGHT HOURS

Nearing the point of exhaustion after aimless wanderings of eight hours, Mrs. Evelyn G. Hovey, 39, of Winthrop street, Waltham, mother of three children, today approached Sergeants Lyons and Duffy of the Waltham police in a plea to establish her identity.

At the time she was on Moody street, more than a mile from her home, chilled by the cold of the early morning hour. Papers in her pocketbook identified her, but the officers elicited but a blank stare at their mention of her name.

Taken to her home, she failed to recognize her husband, Harold Hovey, nor her children, one of whom is three months old. Her mother, also living at the house could not refresh the young wife's memory.

Hovey told police his wife went out last night to buy a bottle of milk. An empty milk bottle was still held by her when found. She remembered nothing of her wanderings though her condition showed signs of walking continuously.

Nine Beauties Lost to Wales as He Roams and Waits

London, Nov. 25 (I.N.S.)—The marriage of the Prince of Wales, now 34, to an English girl was more remote than ever today following the marriage of Lady Mary Thynne and Lord Nunburnholme.

Lady Mary was the last of nine English beauties who, it was hoped, would find favor in the Prince's eyes. Of the nine "eligibles," of of whom were approved by Queen Mary, five are married and one has died, while the passage of time has shown that there is no romantic attachment between the Prince and the other three.

Soft Drink Man Slain

SLAYER SUITOR GUARDED AT HOSPITAL

Lawrence, Nov. 25.—Grief-stricken [illegible] of his young wife, [illegible] he had begun an attempt [illegible] on Stephen LaScola [illegible] to Lawrence today from [illegible] and City, N. Y.

His wife, Mrs. Edna Mae LaScola [illegible] was shot to death yesterday, her wedding anniversary, while [illegible] her two-year-old baby [illegible].

Vincent Lauretti, 29 of New York [illegible] whom she had spurned [illegible] condition in Law[illegible] Hospital with a self-[illegible] wound in his breast.

SLAIN ON STREET

Young LaScola telephoned his [illegible] in Lawrence early today and [illegible] that the world start [illegible] meaning from long [illegible] to [illegible] account to arrive at the [illegible] wife's funeral at St. Mary's Church, where three years ago almost to the hour of the morning she stood [illegible] altar as a bride.

[illegible] the [illegible] of La Scola [illegible] to effect [illegible] Lauretti, [illegible] Lawrence, [illegible] No. 22 Mid[illegible] this city.

Invited by his mother to come home for Thanksgiving dinner the young Lauretti boarded a train that was [illegible] tonight in the hope to save his [illegible] from what he pictured as [illegible] his few days and death he [illegible] with her and their baby girl.

"But I will come soon—as soon as I can," his wrote. "It won't be long; the money I have by me coming for this Thanksgiving hastens the day when I can come and stay, and have my beloved ones with me, in our own little home once again."

Angered because the young wife had repeatedly refused to permit him to visit her, and had finally refused to "elope" with him Lauretti trailed her along the street. Then when she neared the house of her parents he opened fire, and she fell dead from three of his bullets.

One bullet passed within an inch of the baby daughter's head.

MARRIED THREE YEARS.

Lauretti's story is that he had given the young wife money and that "she no left him flat," was given the lie today by persons who told the police that it is truth was that he shot and killed her solely because she had rejected his love-making.

At the Lawrence General Hospital, Lauretti's name was still on the danger list today and the doctors said he had an even chance of recovery. "I want to get well," he moaned from time to time. He is under constant police guard, and is under arrest on a murder charge.

Mrs. LaScola, mother of Stephen, the young husband, told of her son's unhappy life with his wife, Edna Mae, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hoffman of No. 141 May street, this city.

"They were married three [illegible] ago on Thanksgiving Day," said Mrs. LaScola. "They were very happy at first. I know what a blow it was to him after the murder I sent him a telegram appraising him of the tragedy. It broke his heart, for he loved Edna and never ceased loving her.

"Stephen and Edna were happy for two years. He was industrious, and she devoted to him. Then, because of lack of work, the local mills cut down their force, and Stephen lost his job.

"His little home went to smash. Why? Because he soon noticed his wife was discontented and unhappy, and he had to get work, so he went to New York. His wife went to live with her parents."

Slayer May Live

Vincent Lauretti is under arrest in a Lawrence Hospital charged with the slaying of Mrs. Edna Mae LaScola. Lauretti shot himself after killing the girl.

GRAY'S LAWYER PLANS NEW APPEAL

declined to see his own nine-year-old daughter, explaining that he does not want to cause the child any embarrassment. Mrs. Snyder, has been visited by her mother, Mrs. Josephine Brown, and her counsel frequently.

Under plans as arranged at the prison Ruth must die first.

She must march, in those last, long minutes past the pre-execution cell of Henry Judd Gray. She will see him then for the first time since they sat in court, these former sweethearts, and flauntingly and vigorously pushed each other toward the electric chair.

As Ruth was eating chicken and dressing and ice cream in her house of death in Bing Sing, officials were laying out the schedule of her last hours. They decided she would not be placed in one of the screened cells that line the long corridor leading to the little green electrocution chamber.

A CHANCE TO SPEAK.

She will be permitted to remain in her more comfortable quarters until time for the death march.

Mrs. Snyder finished the day with an optimistic telegram to her mother, Mrs. Josephine Brown, in New York city.

"Feeling fine," the message read, "have nothing to worry about."

Gray, much more calm and composed, is expected to have the strength to watch her pass to death and yet have strength to follow in her footsteps.

The small cell in which Gray will sit as she marches past will afford him a close view of his former sweetheart. There will be a chance to speak, perhaps to say goodbye, and perhaps to forgive each other, if they choose. Since they arrived in Sing Sing, Mar 17, the schedules of each, even their visiting days, have been arranged so that they might never meet.

Gray's attitude toward Ruth Snyder is "extremely sympathetic," Miller stated. The counsel for the condemned man emphasized the fact that the feeling of his client for the woman for love of whom he was led to the edge of the shadow of death is one of extreme pity.

RUTH STILL HOPES.

A conference will bring together counsel for Gray and Mrs. Snyder within a day or two, at which a joint fight against the death sentence will be mapped.

The woman's erstwhile armor of indifference is gone, but for the man terror has departed and left in its place a fatalism that amounts to fortitude.

Ruth Snyder still gropes and hopes for life, even behind prison bars; Judd Gray calmly awaits death.

A member of Mrs. Snyder's legal staff described the manner in which she received the news that the Court of Appeals had sustained the conviction of the pair. He said:

"I was a member of the party which carried the fateful news to the woman. When she realized the full import of the decision, she began screaming and pulling at her hair. Her screams could be heard all through the prison. Her terror seemed unbounded. She alternately pounded on the bars of her cell and flung herself on the narrow cot, weeping and screaming.

"When she had calmed somewhat she began calling for her mother and her daughter, Lorraine. Feeling that her mother might comfort her we arranged for Mrs. Brown to visit her the following day.

"As our unhappy visit was ending, and after Mrs. Snyder had quieted down after hearing the bitter news, she instructed us to ask her mother to bring Lorraine from the latter's hiding place. She said:

"'I want my little girl spared as much of this disgrace as possible. See that she is hidden from the effects of this thing and that she is told as little about it as is possible.'"

GRAY PRAYS FOR DAYS.

When told of the court's ruling Gray merely said:

"What God wills, will be done."

Attorney Miller, telling of this dramatic interview, quoted Gray as saying:

"I've had months in which to think over this situation and try to prove to my own satisfaction just WHY I became involved in this murder. I've prayed to God for hours and even days at a time, and yet I don't know how I ever came to help in the killing of Albert Snyder.

Order in Which Ruth and Judd Will Die Undecided

Ossining, N. Y., Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Warden Lawes of Sing Sing prison today denied reports that Ruth Snyder, condemned to death for the murder of her husband, will precede Henry Judd Gray, convicted with her, to the electric chair in the week of January 3.

"There is no foundation for that report," he said. "The order of executions never is decided so far in advance. It is determined by physicians and others at the time of the execution."

BIG NANKING ARMY VICTORY REPORTED

Shanghai, Nov. 25 (I.N.S.).—The Nationalist Military Council at Nanking today announced that the army had overwhelmingly defeated the forces of Sun-Chuan Fang in battle in which the latter's casualties were more than 10,000, with 8,000 prisoners being taken.

The Council claimed Suchilon had been taken. General Sun-Chuan Fang was reported as having moved his headquarters to Nanchow.

Country Sends Out Call for More Doctors

Cleveland, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—The National Grange today sent a resolution to the American Medical Association asking that steps be taken to check the dwindling supply of country doctors, "who threaten to become extinct within 10 years, if the movement toward the city and specialization continues at the present rate."

Changes in the present system of medical education are taken in the resolution passed by the national farm organization, which would encourage young men to seek a livelihood as general practitioners among the thirty million persons living in the rural sections.

PROBE FLAMES THAT ROUT 5 FAMILIES

An investigation by police and fire authorities is on today to probe the cause of a fire which drove five families from the apartment house at No. 47 Englewood avenue, Brighton, and which for a time threatened the section, which is thick with apartment houses.

That the fire was confined to No 47 alone is due largely to the promptness with which the janitor, warned by Mr. and Mrs. George Watt, gave the alarm.

The blaze abounded in spectacular features. Mrs. Cornelius M. Dodd, 80, was carried to safety wrapped in blankets. Another invalid, Mrs George Henry Brown, was also carried through the smoke and flames.

Mr. Watt first smelled smoke and awakened her husband, who, in turn summoned the janitor, and then aided her wife and daughter, Alida Pearl Watt, well-known concert singer, to the street.

Three alarms were sounded, apparatus being called in from Brookline. The blaze, it is believed started in the airshaft and had made its way through the house when the first piece of apparatus arrived.

Miss Meek, nurse for Mrs Dodd and Mrs Marie E. Lyman, her house keeper, undoubtedly saved the life of the aged woman. They were stagering beneath her weight when the janitor came to their assistance.

SEVEN BELIEVED DEAD IN COPPER MINE FIRE

Superior, Ari., Nov. 25 (A.P.)—Fire in the main shaft of the Magma Copper Company's mine here was believed to have taken a toll of seven lives.

Two charred bodies were recovered last night after a blaze of unknown origin had started in the 2,200 foot level and swept through all the timbered section below the 1,650 foot level.

Zeno Daley, an Indian, was described as the hero of the tragedy. He escaped once uninjured and then plunged back into the shaft to aid in rescue work. He was seen no more.

WOMAN HIT BY AUTO DIES IN HOSPITAL

Lawrence, Nov. 25 (A.P.)—An automobile, said by the Reading police to be driven by George M. Littlefield Hemmenway, contractor, who has offices in this city, struck and fatally injured Mrs. A. M. Smith, 64, of Bradford, in Reading square. Mrs. Smith died today in the Winchester Hospital.

COMPANIONS' BACK FROM HONEYMOON

Girard, Kan., Nov. 25.—Young Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey C. Rosello, "companions," came home from a two-day "honeymoon trip" upon which they embarked to gain freedom from cameramen after the companionate wedding ceremony here at the home of the bride's father, E. Haldeman-Julius, the publisher.

Bowing with happiness, the 20-year-old bridegroom and the 18-year-old bride, slipped quietly into town from Joplin, Mo. and went to the Haldeman-Julius home, where a Thanksgiving-time feast and a reception awaited them.

"Just try and get in," was the admonition to inquiring reporters and the movie and still cameramen who were here—disappointed that Mrs. Haldeman-Julius had eloped so much and had the ceremony moved up two days "to avoid all this sensational publicity."

Among the raft of congratulatory messages and letters from well-wishers from all parts of the country, a letter from former Judge Ben Lindsey of Denver, reached the youthful couple.

Lone Cop Routs Two Football Elevens on Tulip Beds

Boy football players in Dorchester, numbering at least two elevens, today are either afeard many scrapers to parents, bring from the chill, hatless, collarless and sweaterless or wishing they hadn't any Thanksgiving turkey, all because a football game so ely tulip beds doesn't go with the pl lies.

It all came about when schoolboys telephoned the Fields Corner Station complaining of a wild battle on the city grass plot in Welleslay Park.

Sergeant McNeil, responding in the patrol wagon, saw only the heels of boys and a miscellaneous collection of outer apparel, when the cry "the wagon!" went up. The assortment includes hats, caps, coats, sweaters and one football. Few claimants are expected, at least until nightfall, when even boy football players must go home.

THIEF STEALS AL SMITH'S COAT, BUT HE'S CAUGHT

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 25 (A.P.)—Brass thieves invaded the executive mansion and stole three coats, one of which belonged to Governor Smith and two to Alfred E. Smith, Jr.. Police Lieutenant Meehan was walking down Madison avenue when he met two men carrying a ulster, racoon coat and dress coat.

"Where did you get those coats?" asked the officer. "A man and girl gave them to us" one answered. "This is Thanksgiving, not Christmas," Meehan said, inviting them to accompy him to the police station. Both men were held.

BODY IS FOUND IN FLOODED BOILER ROOM

Submerged in four feet of water flooding the boiler room of the Pilgrim laundry, the body of Reuben Gilles, 64, watchman, was found today after he is believed to have been seized with an attack of heart trouble.

The water had been turned on in the boilers by Giles at midnight, according to his usual schedule.

It is believed he collapsed a short time later, because the water was not turned off, and when the boiler filled it flowed over to the floor.

When John Powell, first man to enter the plant today, failed to see Giles he went to the boiler room and found it flooded. Police were called and Patrolman Jones of the Dudley street station divested himself of his clothing and went into the water. Giles' body was found near the boiler door.

TAKE 7,000 POUNDS OF MACKEREL IN ONE HAUL

Liberty, N. S., Nov. 25 (A.P.)—A record is believed to be unequaled in Nova Scotia was made by W. H. Harman, Coberman and his crew of Raymond, when they pulled up 10 nets at Western Head and landed 7,000 pounds of mackerel.

The nets had been down twenty-four hours. At this time of the year, when the mackerel season is about ended, a large catch is unusual.

DEFERRED PAYMENTS PLAN GOOD

Installment Buying Is Defended by Economist

NEW YORK, Nov. 17 (CP)—If Installment Buying is restricted to the proper commodities, under proper safeguards, it will gradually throw off its abuses and become one of the greatest contributions of the 20th century to national wealth and welfare, Edwin R. A. Seligman, Columbia University economist, told 600 prominent bankers and industrialists tonight.

"Installment selling," he said, "has increased production, stabilized output, reduced production costs and increased profits."

"Installment credit is beginning to be recognized as the most effective means of financing the consumer," Seligman said, stating that consumers' banking systems pass from the producer

And Added to "Deferred Payments," Its Greatest and Most Helpful Feature

NO MONEY DOWN

Originated by Boyle Bros. in 1898

BOYLE BROS. was the First Credit House in the World to advertise and sell High Grade Quality Clothing for NO MONEY DOWN. Previous to 1898 people buying on deferred payments were required to pay down a sum, usually one-third of the amount of their purchase, before they could take the goods. This rule is still in general use and marks the chief difference in selling policy between the average credit store and the GREAT HOUSE OF BOYLE BROS., where the goods are delivered without a first deposit.

NO MONEY DOWN has stood the test of public opinion for 29 years. It has withstood the attacks of petty imitators, base defamers and unscrupulous speculators. Today—NO MONEY DOWN is recognized by the great buying public as, by far, the most helpful feature in connection with Deferred Payments, because it abolishes the big first deposit, the hardest payment of all.

BOYS DEDICATE POOL AT INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

Shirley, Nov. 25.—The new swimming pool in the central recreation building had a holiday dedication in a plunge enjoyed by the 300 youngsters before they sat down to a bountiful repast of roast chicken, which, with all the fixings, was raised by the boys on the school farm.

Superintendent George P. Campbell arranged a Thanksgiving entertainment for the boys, including a moving picture show in the assembly hall.

MRS. F. B. LELAND

The former Duchess Von Daun is suing the estate of her late husband, a New York banker, for $60,000.

3 FACE COURT IN 15-YEAR-OLD GIRL CASE

Two men are to face court on charges of a fifteen-year-old Lynn girl, and another, accused of assault with intent to kill one of the men, will play the role of defendant in his own case and witness against the others, when the girl's story of imprisonment in a West End house is told in Municipal Court.

Anthony Pino of Mattapan, and Clifford H Cameron of Roxbury are the two charged in the girl case. They were arrested by Special Officers J. C Cullen, Arthur Tiernan and J. H Cronin of the Dedham street station.

John Ademan of Norway street, Rick Ray, described by the police as a jealous suitor, brought the arrest of the two and himself when, prior to charges he washed Pino when he too met at West Dedham street and Shawmut avenue, last week.

Pino, swathed in bandages, was recognized by the girl, who had escaped from the house. She caused his arrest, quickly followed by the arrest of the others. Out of deference to her parents, and, in consideration of her age, the Boston Evening American withholds the girl's name.

LADY PEARSON

Sir Neville Arthur Pearson, British newspaper owner, was granted a divorce from the former Mary Mond, on ground of misconduct.

DURANT'S YACHT FLEES FROM CANADIAN WRIT

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 25 (A. P.)—The haven of international waters today kept the yacht Vidor, owned by William C. Durant, American financier, safe from pursuing Canadian government craft which were seeking to serve a writ of attachment against her.

Aside from the writ sought by the Canadian National Railways which claimed the Vidor damaged a bridge over the Lachine canal at Montreal. The Vidor was also charged with failing to comply with port clearing regulations, [illegible] traveling through Quebec Harbor at an excessive rate of speed.

TRYING TO RESTORE PEACE IN COLORADO

Denver, Col., Nov. 25 (A.P.)—Negotiations to settle the Colorado coal strike today occupied State officials and miner leaders. With the exception of seven shots fired from an automobile near a mine in southern Colorado, Thanksgiving Day passed without incident.

With petitions for a conference with operators signed by thousands of miners in his possession, Gov Adams announced that he would notify mine owners today of plans to effect a settlement of the wage controversy.

SALLY'S SHOULDERS

by Beatrice Burton
Author of "The HOLLYWOOD GIRL" ETC.

The Story of a Clever Boston Girl and Her Temperamental Sister

CHAPTER X.

SALLY saw that the only thing was to stay there and listen to what Ted Sloan had to say to her. She had known it for a long time.

For months she had seen that this moment was bound to come sooner or later. This moment when Ted would set their friendship aside and insist upon making love to her. "Making a perfect fool of himself," was the way Sally put it to herself.

Now that the moment was actually upon her, she was nervous and uncertain.

"Well, what do you want?" she asked him sharply. "Tell me what's on your mind and make it snappy. And you might take your hands off my shoulders too, if you don't mind. Because I do."

"You do what?" asked Ted, whose brain did not begin to work as fast as hers.

"I mind having your hands on my shoulders," she told him again, and she shook them off with a sudden twist of her whole body.

She eased back and let the table and looked up at him, waiting for him to begin. After a minute or two he did.

"You make it mighty hard for me, Sally," he said dolefully. "I was going to ask you to marry me, and you tell me you hate to have my hands on your shoulders." His voice sounded hurt and she was sorry for him all at once.

After all, he was a nice boy, even if she didn't want to marry him. She didn't want to marry anyone. She started to say so, and changed her mind.

"I never have liked to have anybody touch me," she said steadily. "It's not because I don't like you, Ted's because I do. Don't do that!" For he had put his arms around her and was turning her towards him with just a strong pressure of his hands on her waist.

"Don't do that!" she cried out again, and tried to push him away from her. She put her hands up against his face as it came down close to her own. It seemed like a face of a stranger—an enemy—in the starry darkness. And it was going to kiss her. The stranger.

"Don't—please—" and Sally, and something in her voice must have been in her voice, for the man suddenly let her go. She sank back against the table, and put her hand up to her mouth as if he actually had kissed it.

"I'm sorry," Ted apologized after a second. "I didn't know you felt this way about me. I thought you liked me all this time while we've been dancing together, going to shows—"

"Oh, but I do!" Sally told him solemnly. "I like you fine, Ted Sloan. And I'd rather dance with you than do anything I can think of. But I hate this!"

She spread out her arms as if to show him that what she meant by "this" was the warm darkness, the solitude, the romance of the Summer night.

"I guess I'm sort of hard-hearted and cold," she finished with a little laugh.

"Cold as Greenland's icy mountains." Ted agreed with her. "You sure are, and no mistake about it." But whether he really thought her cold or not, he was not willing to give her up right away. He stood there beside her, puffing at the pipe that he picked up from the table and went on talking in a low tone, almost as if he were talking to himself.

"You see, all along I've thought you were as keen about me as I was about you," he said. "I knew I wasn't making much money but I knew I'd be making more pretty soon. And I thought you could keep on working for a while after we were married—and look after the house nights and mornings like you do now for your mother. It wouldn't be so hard."

No, it wouldn't be so hard, said Sally to herself, her eyes on the dark roofs of the houses on the next street. But somehow the picture that Ted was painting for her with his words wasn't the way she had always pictured her married life, when love and marriage should come to her.

She had always thought of herself as a homemaker as well as a wife and a lover. . . . She had imagined herself working all day long in a little house with a little garden somewhere. Getting together a nice little supper that wouldn't cost much but would be deliciously cooked. Rushing upstairs at the end of the day to powder her nose and fluff up her hair for the return of a husband—husband who was certainly not Ted Sloan in his wildest dreams!

That was Sally's idea of marriage, and it had no part in—office job in it. Way getting married to Ted and working at two jobs would be almost the life as it was now. Never enough time to do anything well. Never enough money to do anything as it should be done.

"But even that wouldn't be so bad if I loved him," thought Sally.

She turned and put her strong, capable little hands on his shoulders for just an instant.

"Ted we're such very good friends—aren't we? Why should we forget all this one stuff?" she asked him. "You don't really care for me. I'm sure of it. You just think you do."

He shook his head silently. She didn't know what the little negative movement mean and while she was wondering he turned and went pad

ARMY SEEKS SCHOOL RIOT ARRESTS

Goodfellow! Adopt a Friendless Family Xmas

EXCELLENT CHANCE TO AID NEEDY

Destitution in Thousands of Families is Revealed in Letters to Club

Now that Thanksgiving is over, what are you going to do on Christmas?

The reason for asking the question is that the Boston Evening American has a Christmas suggestion which ought to enrich the day for you and add an unusual savor to the day of days.

This suggestion—[illegible] read it on these pages before today and we cannot promise that you will not read it again today, but you [illegible] for the Christmas holiday a little [illegible] family.

Perhaps you don't know such a family. If you did the only way to get to know a friendless family would be to have that family brought to your attention.

This is the very thing that the

DEMANDS RIOTERS BE SEIZED

U. S. Army Officials Order Revere and Winthrop to Act in Grid Game

The United States army today demanded prompt action from Chiefs Tighe and McNeil of Revere and Winthrop respectively and the arrest of the ring leaders in the riot staged at Fort Banks on the holiday [illegible] during the football game between Revere and Winthrop high schools.

[illegible] Chief Tighe [illegible] would be sent back to [illegible] Winthrop [illegible] and the field [illegible] display banner and [illegible] Revere folk.

NO BLOCK PASSING.

Colonel [illegible] McMillan commanding [illegible] sent orders from Major General [illegible] in command of the First Corps Area, that would have none of the buck passing and said that the two chiefs must cooperate and bring the leaders to justice.

Chief Tighe agreed to join with Chief McNeil in the hunt for the [illegible] and the search is now on.

"It was the most disgraceful affair I have seen in my years in the army," said Colonel McMillan at Revere headquarters. "It was a disgrace to the two schools, to the followers and to the army reserve [illegible]."

NURSE BROKEN HEADS.

In addition to the eight in hospitals as a result of the riot, scores of others are nursing broken heads and other injuries at their homes today.

The soldiers, who attempted to quell the riot, were [illegible] off their feet by the final [illegible] of frightened rioters, and not until Colonel McMillan himself took charge of the situation was order restored.

Burglars who anticipated clearing $500 from the coffers of Wood [illegible] School on North Shore road, Revere, [illegible] rewarded [illegible] of [illegible] for the Winthrop-Revere [illegible] were foiled by the cunning of [illegible] who, anticipating just such [illegible] had the money in a safer place.

The foiled burglars vented their anger by throwing a dozen [illegible] typewriters around the floor of one of the classrooms.

WINTER HITS HUB A WHACK

The lowest temperature for the season thus far in metropolitan Boston was marked at 7 a. m. today, when the mercury dropped to 29 degrees, remaining at that point for several hours.

That little snow flurry you saw was just the tail end of the rain storm—frozen up. Jack Winter apparently has come.

A northwest wind made it appear that the atmosphere was a bit more chilly than the gauge indicated, and the wind and cold combined to freeze automobiles left out over night without benefit of anti-freeze compounds in the radiators.

The third lowest temperature for the season thus far in metropolitan Boston was marked at 7 a. m. today.

Unofficial temperatures in some sections of Greater Boston gave lower readings than the official. In Cambridge the low was 26, Medford had 30 degrees, Melrose 22, Malden and Everett each 30.

Greater Boston can relax temporarily, however, to enjoy a warm wave speeding from the far northwest.

Fair weather is promised tomorrow with a rise in temperature within twenty-four hours.

The storm which suddenly descended last night to leave more than half an inch of rain, was reported in New Mexico Wednesday and reached New England coast in three cross-country jumps.

There have been two colder days in the present month.

FIRST TRIAL FLIGHT TO MANCHESTER, N. H., FIELD

Manchester, N. H., Nov. 25 (A P.)—Stormy weather postponing the original program, the first trial flight to the new Manchester airport will be made late today when Carl W. LOSES APPEAL ON STREET TAXI STANDS

Springfield, Nov. 25 (A P.)—The Supreme Court in a [illegible] handed down today denied [illegible] Dr. Harry E. Rice of [illegible] road case brought by [illegible] to determine the right of [illegible] to set aside certain areas of [illegible] highways as taxi stands.

Dr. Rice brought [illegible] in the district court many [illegible] in order to determine the rights of the public, holding that [illegible] had no right to set aside parts of the highway for the exclusive use of taxicabs.

WOMAN HUNTER HELD FOR SHOOTING MAN

Old Town, Me., Nov. 25 (A P.)—Mrs. Sarah M. Dorcster of Bangor pleaded not guilty in the Municipal Court today to a charge of [illegible] gently and carelessly [illegible] man being while hunting" and was held for the January term of the Superior Court. She furnished $1,000 bonds.

A rifle in the hands of Mrs. Dorcster was discharged while she was hunting in Greenfield November 11, and the bullet fatally wounded Harry Snider of Bangor.

$2,026,000 STOCK ISSUE FOR RAILWAY LINE

The newly incorporated Boston Worcester & New York [illegible] Railway Company was today [illegible] by the Public Utility Commissioners capital stock to [illegible] issue capital stock to [illegible] of $2,026,000 and $1,000,000 in bonds for the financing [illegible] consolidation of the old Boston & Worcester Street Railway Company, bought at a receiver's sale by a group headed by Henry L. Shattuck of Boston.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an [e]xplained creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: Soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

All known drugs, creosote [is] recognized by [th]e medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

BREED HONORED BY CITY CLUB

More than 100 members of the Boston City Club, the Rotary Club and the Appalachian Mountain Club met at luncheon at the City Club today to pay honors to Henry H. Bond, Boston attorney recently made assistant secretary of the Treasury.

Prof. Charles H. Breed, president of the City Club, said in his eulogy of Bond that he was one of the most unselfish citizens that ever enrolled at the City Club, always being eager to do more than was expected of him, whenever enterprise the club had undertaken.

Prof. Breed introduced as speakers, Alfred H. Marchant, William A. Rogers, and the guest of honor.

Atty. Bond said the appointment had come as a complete surprise to him and he is still pinching himself not sure it is not a dream.

CANADIAN NATIONAL GIVING FAST SERVICE TO MONTREAL

Although the line of the Grand Trunk Railway to Maine and New Hampshire suffered considerable damage in the recent flood, there have been complete restorations and passenger trains are not only operating on regular schedules but are making regular time, giving "on time" performance.

The New England, which under normal conditions operates via White River Junction and the Central Vermont Railway, is temporarily operating via Portland, thence Canadian National Railways. It leaves Boston at 7:25 p.m., arriving in Montreal at 8:50 a.m., leaving Montreal at 7:25 p.m., arriving in Boston at 8:47 a.m. These being new times are effective today and considerably faster than train service when first established via this route.

HELD FOR ROBBING GIRL IN CAMBRIDGE

Charles H. French, 24, of Franklin street, Cambridge, was held in $3,000 for the Grand Jury today by Judge Arthur P. Stone in East Cambridge Court on a charge of robbing Augusta Rosencrans, 28, of Broadway, Cambridge, on the night of November 16.

The girl appeared with eyes still red and one hand in a bandage and told of a beating and robbery at the hands of a man in the court street while returning home from work. She was relieved of $11 in cash and a check for $41. Miss Rosencrans could not positively identify Dever, but said the defendant looked like her assailant.

ATHEIST HEAD HELD FOR ANNOYING DR. STRATON

New York, Nov. 25 (A.P.)—Charles Leon Smith, president of the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism, today was held in $500 bail for trial on a charge of sending annoying literature to the Rev. Dean Roach Straton, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church.

The action took steps last April to have Smith restrained from sending [the] [a]theistic constant stream of [lit]erature which Dr. Straton declared was of an annoying nature.

"Making Good" Two Years Later

By Lesley

MRS. S. — a younger matron from Dorchester purchased a coat at the First Anniversary Sale of Lesley's some two years ago. Last week, while making another purchase, she casually made reference to the fact that while the coat was still in excellent condition, the lining had slightly pulled away in places and it needed some few minor repairs.

THOUGH no reference was made as to the sale price of the coat the sales girl—who knew our policy—called the floor manager who urged the customer to bring the coat in. She did so the next day. We had it repaired, pressed and returned it to her the following day, [a]t [a] cost to us as good as the day she bought it!

HER pleasure and gratification was [ex]pression enough to compense for the service rendered—and we gained another loyal friend and well wisher.

"The Amateurs" of Brookline to Give "Aren't We All" Next Month

THOSE LOCAL FOOTLIGHT FAVORITES, "THE AMATEURS" OF Brookline certainly are never satisfied to achieve the second best. Their goal is ever the very best. For which reason is their place in the heart of the theatre-goer quite unassailable, and their fame in keeping with a fine record through more than a score of years. This December they do that clever bit of stage satire, "Aren't We All." It's something to tax the tried and known talents of even such a finished troupe as "The Amateurs." Needless to say they have the stage technique and finish to put it over superbly.

VERY CHOICE AND NOT OVERLY LONG IS THE LIST OF patronesses. Mrs. Lars Anderson, Mrs. Thomas Allen and Mrs. Charles Fanning Ayer are the notable "A's" and over the "W's" Mrs. Edwin S. Webster and Mrs. Hinkley Welch cast their certain glamour. Otherwise, the list reads: Mrs. Edward D. Brandegee, Mrs. B. Parker Bremer, Mrs. J. Randolph Coolidge, Mrs. Francis Lee Higginson, Mrs. Franklin W. Hobbs, Mrs. William A. Paine, Mrs. Benjamin Franklin Pitman, Mrs. Philip L. Saltonstall, Mrs. Richard M. Saltonstall, Mrs. S. Warren Sturgis and Mrs. Henry D. Tudor.

VERY CHOICE ALSO IS THE CAST. IT GLEAMS AND TWINKLES with amateur stars of the stage proficiency well nigh faultlessly professional. Alan Hay heads it. And Miss Ruth Perkins, Miss Mary Howes, Miss Ruth Holmes and Miss Margaret Taylor are its feminine ornaments. Of the sterner sex one notes Walter Wehlings name, and Malcolm Jennes - and E. Irving Locke's, and Shirley K. Race's, Robert W. Frost's and Gerard Collier's. Where could one point out a more polished galaxy?

WHITNEY HALL IN BROOKLINE HAS WITNESSED MANY A triumph by "The Amateurs." This season they again occupy the same perfectly appointed stage. And the evenings of the presentations are December 7, 8 and 9. H. M. Leland is looking after the tickets and other details of management, and such are in hands equally expert. Later in the season, as is their regular procedure, "The Amateurs" will have another theatrical tidbit for their admirers.

RETURNING HONEYMOONERS INCLUDE MR. AND MRS. MINton Machado Warren, whose luse de miel was the accepted smart pilgrimage through Europe. They arrived on this side just prior to the Mayflower Dinner at the Somerset, Mr. Warren being particularly identified with that splendid occasion as directly descended from a "Signer," one Richard Warren. Mrs. Warren selected a sweetly pretty frock from the trousseau store to adorn the dinner scene: a creme Pompadour satin designed in trailing sprays of rosebuds, girlishly simple and ever so becoming to the former Miss Sarah Ripley Robbins.

BE IT EVER SO GRAY AND DOUR A DAY, THANKSGIVING with the Myopians is brilliantly flecked with color from "pink" coats an hunters and hounds gallop after the fox and then gather for Hunt Breakfast with the Charles Fanning Ayers at "Juniper Ridge." The Ayer breakfast on Thanksgiving Day is as much a Myopia function as the hunt itself, and for these several years has appeared on the card of Hunting Appointments with unfailing regularity. Festivity it is a high habit of the Myopian season for hunting, which is now nearing its close as set down in the year of 1927.

SIRS AND LADIES AND EXCELLENCIES AND HONORABLES, IN spectacular profusion, are sponsoring the annual Charity Ball staged by the British Charitable Society. Of course the list is headed by His Excellency the British Ambassador and Lady Isabella Howard, and includes the local British representative, Edward F. Gray, and his petite and charming spouse, Mrs. Gray. And, not content to stop there, this annual British function, with a century of good work behind it, enrolls Viscount Willingdon, Governor-General of Canada, and Viscountess Willingdon, Sir Harry Gloster Armstrong, His Britannic Majesty's Consul-General in New York, and Lady Armstrong.

THE BALL, WITH ITS SPECTACULAR ACCOMPANIMENTS OF figure dances and military drills, is set for the evening of December 3 at the Hotel Copley Plaza, and local dignitaries in the persons of the Governor and the Mayor will lend official countenance. It's an occasion on which [a] [g]reat many of [b]oth [s]exes [a]re [g]arbed in [u]niform—and this year's committee, with John Murphy Vose at its head, is doing itself proud in special arrangements for the drills, dances and music.

THE DEBUTANTE PINWHEEL WHIRLS WITH UNABATED ZEST. The gay young things had Mrs. Oakes Ames' Thanksgiving Eve party for Miss Evelyn Ames to enliven the before the holiday hours, and for this evening they all flock to the Country Club to the dance for Miss Elisabeth Sherburne and Miss Betty Heath. Miss Sherburne is the second daughter of the John H. Sherburnes, and Miss Heath occupies a similar position in the Reginald Heath family.

WHEN THE EXHIBITION AND SALE FOR THE NORTH BENNET Street Industrial School opens up and Society flocks to it in vast numbers, then will Miss Ellen Graves be found on hand, one of the faithful band in constant attendance. The sale, an important philanthropic affair of the early Winter, rejoices in a very ardent support from many of those on the social summits, and as for the stock, that is a choice collection gathered together under George C. Greene's expert hand. Each season overtops the preceding ones in presenting beautiful and artistic things set out most attractively. Results monetarily are splendid.

ALBANIA UNDER ITALY'S WING

Rome, Nov. 25 (I.N.S.)—A denial that the military alliance treaty between Italy and Albania was directed at any third power was made today by the newspaper Popolo D'Italia.

Many observers were of the opinion that the treaty was a direct [re]ntal for the recent similar pact entered into between France and [Ju]goslavia.

The Popolo D'Italia's comment, however, embodied a threat that with the treaty in force, Albania's frontiers were to be strictly safeguarded. The paper said:

"Albania must not be touched."

"The treaty is not directed against any third power. If no nation interferes with Albania's frontiers, the treaty will remain in the archives.

COUNTESS SAYS HUBBY TOO FOND OF 'LEARY'

Her husband was altogether too fond of the name "Leary," according to Countess [illegible] Leary, the New York society woman, well known in Boston, who was granted a Parol [illegible] because of her many charges in her suit for separate support. Countess Julia Barnes Gibbs Leary, an actress, as the other woman.

The woman who was a frequent visitor at the North Shore testified that her husband had left her "destitute" and wrote her husband's lawyer saying she was now in the possession of every stitch of [illegible] and the judge broke in to say that the countess could not eat the jewels and accordingly had a perfect right to ask for separate support.

The countess denied the charge that she had drawn a revolver against her husband. It is absurd I loved him too well," she said.

NAME BANKERS TO AID RELIEF IN VERMONT

A plan for the restoration of industry and commerce in the Vermont flood area will be worked out by a sub-committee of five members of the New England conference, appointed today at a meeting in the offices of Boston Safe Deposit & Trust Company.

This sub-committee consists of the following: Daniel G. Wing, First National Bank, Boston; Walter S. Bucklin, president National Shawmut Bank, Boston; Guy P. Gannett, Gannett Publishing Company, Portland, Me. Frederick M. Jones, Third National Bank & Trust Company, Springfield. Fred A. Howland, Emergency Finance Commissioner of Vermont.

Immediately after being appointed, the sub-committee went into session to consider ways and means of extending aid.

During the course of the general meeting preceding the appointment of the sub-committee a suggested plan of aid was submitted by Emergency Finance Commissioner Howland of Vermont.

This was a result of a previous meeting of the Vermont members of the New England Conference in addition. President Bucklin of Shawmut National Bank explained the plan used in the Mississippi flood area.

TO FORM CORPORATION.

The services of Roland Boynton, a widely known Boston attorney, as adviser and counsellor, were accepted. A corporation will be formed and may be known as New England Flood Relief Association.

A. C. Ratshesky, representing the Red Cross declared that organization will do everything possible in the way of relief and rehabilitation, except the establishing of credit.

The sub-committee has full power to draft a plan and put it into execution. The meeting adjourned subject to the call of Bishop William Lawrence, who was elected chairman of the general committee.

In addition to the above named men, those who attended today's meeting were Hyrne P. Hodgman, president First National Bank, Concord, N. H. J. H. Wells, Providence, R. I.; M. Howe Florrimon, president Industrial Trust Company, Providence, R. I.; E. C. Buckland, New Haven Railroad; Redfield Proctor, Proctor, Vermont, former Governor of Vermont; Charles F. Lowe, president Montpelier Savings Bank & Trust Company, Montpelier, Vt.

OTHERS AT CONFERENCE

Others who attended included Louis J. Hunter, vice-president National Shawmut Bank, Boston; C. E. Whitney, Boston, Bank Commissioner Clark of Vermont, John S. Lawrence, Boston, H. K. Hallett, chairman of Atlantic National Bank, board of directors, Boston, Alfred L. Ripley, president Merchants National Bank, Boston; Thomas P. Beal, president Second National Bank, Boston.

Yellow Uniforms for Trolley Men to Match the Cars

Worcester, Nov. 25.—The trolley car operators in Worcester don't intend to let their brothers in Springfield have anything on them, so the Worcester carmen may wear yellow uniforms. It was learned today that the Worcester Consolidated Street Railway Co. is considering a change in color of the uniforms to match the yellow trolleys. The Springfield Co. has already announced its intention of making a change.

SAYS GIBBONS FEARED WIFE

tence by adding one and one for Judge and Jury and by saying he knew it was a sin to tell a lie. He told of seeing Gibbons, the victim, buying cigarettes shortly before the disappearance, and also of minding Gibbons' dog for him.

Oliver Downes, in telling a half-brother of Gibbons, Henry Graham, testified that Theodore Gibbons was in terror of his wife and Da Silva, that he borrowed a gun to protect himself from them, and rebuilt death-locks and windows of his home.

COURT ROOM THRONGED.

The court was thronged with spectators, mostly women, before the session began.

Mrs. Gibbons is standing trial alone, her paramour and the man jointly indicted with her for the crime, having been committed to the State Hospital for the Insane.

Graham testified that for two weeks in February of 1926 he lived with his brother in the latter's home in Foster street, this city.

A question: "Can you give any reason for your living with him?" was admitted over objection and Graham answered:

"He was afraid."

"He told me he was afraid of Gertrude, his wife?" Graham went on, while the accused woman watched him intently.

He then told of his brother's relating how Gertrude, on a visit to the Foster street home, discharged a revolver, the property of the slain man.

Gibbons had the spring lock on his door changed because he was afraid "Gertrude and Tony da Silva might come in," Graham testified.

He also nailed down the windows for a like reason, said the half-brother.

Graham saw Gibbons last on the Saturday before he was found dead at their mother's home in Somerset. There Gibbons had helped clean house.

Da Silva, committed to the State Hospital, had some cause, apparently, for Thanksgiving. For the woman on trial, hollow-eyed and peaked, there was none.

She was in jail after two nights and a day alone with her thoughts following the State's opening by Dist. Atty. William C. Crossley and the testimony of several prosecution witnesses. And she has not the comfort of her child—a contributing cause, according to the prosecution to the slaying of its father.

It was a continual quarreling over the child, together with Mrs. Gibbons affection for da Silva which provided the motive for the murder of the child's father, the state claims.

A stick of wood, an iron pipe or a hammer wielded in fiendish hands struck life from the body of Gibbons, Medical Examiner Frederick R. Barnes testified. Mrs. Gibbons had an intimate knowledge of the farm whose well contained her slain husband, Dist. Atty. Crossley said in his opening.

Manuel Frazier, brother of the accused, and Mrs. Mary Madeiros, her sister, were to be the first called today.

HUB TEAMS IN HEARST SHOOT FOR TROPHY

Rifle teams of New England's schools and colleges are falling in line with competitors from all sections of the country for the William Randolph Hearst trophy shoot, already carrying 201 entries.

The contest is to culminate when certified records of shootings at ranges of competing units are forwarded to the R. O. T. C. officer, Sixth Corps Area, Chicago, not later than April 25, 1928.

The shootings are to be completed between February 15 and April 15.

New England teams entered include Massachusetts Agricultural College, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Connecticut Agricultural College, Norwich University, Boston University and University of Vermont; all competing in the eastern section for senior units—colleges and universities. Of the New England high schools Gloucester and Bangor are among the entries in their class.

Military schools form the other division, divided like the other classes, into four sections representing, South, East, West and Middle West.

A Hearst trophy is to be awarded in each section, a silver shield mounted on ebony. It measures three feet one inch in height and two feet one inch in width.

CHICAGO QUITS 'SILENT NIGHT' AFTER 4 YEARS

Chicago, Nov. 25 (A P.).—Twisting the radio dial to bring in far away stations no longer is Monday night's indoor sport for Chicago fans. The city's broadcasters have abandoned "silent night," inaugurated four years ago.

At that time all local stations entered a "gentlemen's agreement," to stay off the air on Monday evenings, so the distance hounds could get what they wanted, or try to get it.

Broadcasting has now been resumed on every night in the week for various reasons, but principally because it was feared Chicago wavelengths would be permanently assigned on Monday nights to other stations, thus preventing even emergency broadcasting, should circumstances necessitate it.

Silent night has had a controversial career. It resulted in the country a first "listener's strike," licensed because several Chicago stations continued to broadcast on Monday nights. Listeners got together and decided not to tune in on them during the week. The fans won.

While the family of distance hunters may not be as large as it once was, with radio taking its place in the homes with other forms of entertainment, listeners have reported almost as much luck in tuning for distance with the locals on the air as on Monday nights. This class, of course, includes only those with the more modern receivers. Owners of the older type sets did not have so much luck anyway on Mondays.

Distance was not far. All we noticed were Newark, WOR, loud; New York, WEAF, like local; Schenectady, WGY, erratic, and Worcester, WTAG, medium.

Heterodyne squeals below 270 metres were plentiful. What was probably WMAK, Buffalo, was barely audible. This broadcast usually is strong.

Seven tubes burned gaily in our Kellogg.

RADIO DIALOG

by C. WILLIAM RADO

"Castles in the Air," as far from ordinary life as the once-a-year Thanksgiving dinner feast, made attempts on WEEI to illustrate the "dreams of comedy and pathos that go to make up ordinary life." This Coward Comfort broadcast coming through the moistened air made us think of erecting nice, inexpensive castles for newlyweds.

However, today is Friday. We have a pleasant memory of the program and realize that hard-hearted contractors will keep on building unromantic apartment houses.

Carrying on with the spirit of castles and princes, WEEI next radiated the weekly Tower Adventurers. It, they or them sounded like a pseudo orchestra, backed by a good quartet, but still twentieth century enough to want to be paid in American money instead of romance.

It rained. Persistent wet rain that drowned out that irritating WJJD whistle and made WEEI sooth.

Enough for two full course dinners were the Maxwell and operatic broadcasts, WHZ, 9 to 11. Richard Crooks, Maxwell artist, sang when the orchestra stopped playing. When he stopped the orchestra played. What they presented had little to do with Thanksgiving. The holiday won't be over until the last bill is paid, so keep on with the broadcasts.

* * *

"La Gioconda" heavy opera from Chicago. It contained spies, jails, mobs, plots, suicides, and stabs. Although it is a seventeenth century opera elsewhere it is up to date in Chicago.

Next week they will try to have an opera with a mayor.

If 'Taint Spooks, It Is Something Like 'Em

It might have been a coincidence, of course, or perhaps, if there are spooks, it was spooks, but it—as the police believe—it was a joke, well—it just "ain't no joke."

For the second time within a month the big gong on the Florence Nightingale School in West Park street, Dorchester, sent out an urgent, early morning summons today.

It was exactly 2.30 a. m. when the phone in Station 19 rang and a voice said: "That school bell has started up again and nobody around here can sleep."

More than 20 of those who couldn't sleep called up the police to tell them so.

Patrolman Donald B. McKinnon climbed through a bulkhead into the school cellar and pulled all the switches he could find. The bell stopped ringing, silence wrapped about West Park street once more and everybody turned over on their right sides.

BALKITE HOUR

Of course you want an AC electric receiver For its convenience. Now you can have it, without the uncertainty of untried apparatus, and without sacrificing quality of reception.

Simply by adding Balkite Electric "AB" to your present radio set. Balkite Electric "AB" replaces both "A" and "B" batteries and supplies radio power from the light socket. It contains no battery in any form. It operates only during reception. It makes any receiver an electric set.

This method makes possible the use in electric reception of standard sets and standard type tubes. Both are tried and proved, and give by far the clearest and truest reproduction. With this method there is no waiting for tubes to warm up. No difficulty in controlling volume. No noise. No AC hum. No crackling or fading of power. Instead the same high standard of reception to which you are accustomed.

In this method there is nothing experimental, nothing untried. It consists of two of the most dependable products in radio—a standard set and Balkite. And if you should already own a radio set, the cost of equipping it with Balkite is only a fraction of the cost of a new receiver.

By all means go to AC reception. Its convenience is the greatest improvement in radio. But be as critical of an AC receiver as you would of any other. That your AC receiver be a standard set equipped with Balkite Electric "AB." Then it will be as clear and faithful in reproduction as any receiver you can buy.

Two models, $64.50 and $74.50. Ask your dealer. Fansteel Products Co., Inc., North Chicago, Illinois.

Native Sons from California ~ They Play Notre Dame at Chicago Tomorrow ~ Big Sectional Battle

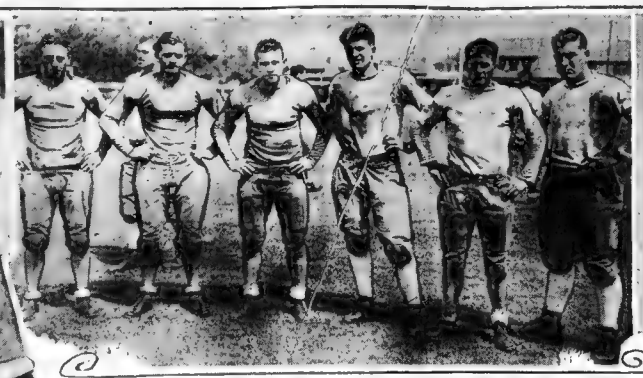
JOHN WARD



NATE BARROGER

Here are some of the sturdy members of the southern California football team which engages Notre Dame at Soldier Field, Chicago, tomorrow. The Trojans are undefeated this season although held to a tie by Stanford. The team holds this year's Pacific Coast title jointly with Stanford. Coach Howard Jones of the Trojans has his usual well-drilled and hard fighting aggregation. The team is figured to give Notre Dame a hard fight provided the cold weather does not prove a handicap. The men in the group, above, are (left to right): Steponovich, Moses, Charles Boren, Moses, Saunders and Galoway.

Cambridge Boy to Lead N. Y. U. Next Year

New York, Nov. 25 (INS)—Four of the East's outstanding gridiron stars will lead their respective teams next season.

Al Lissman of Cambridge, Mass., end and [illegible] tackle of New York University, was chosen to captain the Violet. Lissman was forced out of [illegible] into this season because of [illegible].

Paul Scull, defensive end and [illegible] was picked as Penn's [illegible] Quarterback Bill Shakespeare, of New York, Ohio, is the team's [illegible] leader.

Peter Pirsig, of Upper Montclair, N. J., lineman and one of the [illegible] in the country, was elected captain of the Columbia eleven.

MICKY WALKER SUSPENDED IN N. Y.

New York, Nov. 25 (A.P.)—Mickey Walker, world's middleweight boxing champion, and his manager, Jack Curley, today were put on the indefinite [illegible] by the New York State Athletic Commission for failure to appear [illegible] Curley also was fined $1,000 and Walker $500.

Commissioner George A. Putney announced that he could not [illegible] Walker or Curley in [illegible] in this state because of the commission's suspension but the commission explained that it could not [illegible] Walker or Curley in [illegible] in New York because The commission did not take into consideration its usual allowance of six months to champions after they have defended their titles. Walker fought and knocked out Tommy Milligan, British challenger, in London on June 3; less than five months ago. Walker hasn't defended his title in the United States since he won it from the late Tiger Flowers at Chicago last December.

Mark Mosley of New York, negro middleweight and title contender, volunteered to fight Courtney and the commission indicated it would sanction such a match as an "elimination contest."

Sid Terris, New York lightweight was reinstated after being under suspension for over two months for fouling Phil Mosiman of Detroit in a bout at Tuxedo Park.

Broadcasting of Game Favored by Yale

New Haven, Ct., Nov. 25 (A.P.)—Radio broadcasting of football games has been sanctioned by the Yale Athletic Association when Yale plays in the Bowl and it was done all season. There never has been a fear in the association that attendance would be cut down in any way.

Recently Vanderbilt University sent a questionnaire to the Yale Athletic Association in which the item of radio broadcasting of football and its effect in cutting down attendance was discussed. General Manager H. J. Woodruff had a reply sent that broadcasting made no appreciable effect upon game attendance. Yale was glad to have done and had a number [illegible] and the more it goes to aid in providing accurate information as to games and plays during the games.

The broadcasting had had no effect on attendance on the Princeton game here, it was shown by the fact that in the bowl, which is close to 72,000 persons, there were more Princeton men and friends than ever before at a game and practically all had to journey here to see it.

HUDKINS ASKS KANSAS BOARD TO LIFT BAN

Everett High Has Best Claim to the Crown

By JOE CASHMAN.

One of the most unusual schoolboy football seasons ever, came to a close with the Turkey Day objective games, most of which were played in a drenching rain, and on seas of mud.

It was as though the heavens were weeping over the fate of various teams. And well they might have been, for bad luck camped on the trail of the schoolboy gridders all Fall as it never did before.

First, there was an epidemic of missing captains. Next, there was an ineligibility plague. And, finally, there occurred a series of startling upsets.

As a result, the season over, there is but one undefeated and untied team in the State, and only one eleven that is undisputed champion of a league.

Belmont, by beating Watertown, closed its sea on with a clean slate. The eleven, however, faced no opposition of note, with the exception of Arlington, and while its record proves it to be classy, it hardly can be considered as a State champion contender.

Hyde Park is undisputed champion of the Boston District League, having gone through league competition undefeated, but the Sher local-coached charges were tied by such teams as Brighton, South Boston and Dorchester, killing their claim to an title but that which they won.

Lawrence, beaten only by Andover, is, according to all rules and regulations, the State champion, but its claim will be disputed strongly by all Everett supporters.

EVERETT HAS GOOD CLAIM.

Everett closed an undefeated season, by taking Cambridge Latin into camp and, on its season's record, is really more entitled to the State crown than is Lawrence. The Gothics charges won all their games but two by wide margins, and had but six points scored against them all season.

The Suburban Leaguers, however, were one of the many teams that were handed a knockout wallop by odd kid luck. After winning six games, it was discovered that Captain Angi DiMott had been ineligible to represent the team from the start of the season because he was over 20 years old—the age-boy age limit—and Everett was forced to forfeit a half dozen victories.

Everett's forfeit also caused it to lose the Suburban League championship, Newton winning by turning back Hyde, Cambridge Latin, Somerville and Brookline.

NEWTON COACH MAKES GOOD.

Coach John L. Sullivan deserves much credit for the great job he did in his first year at the Garden City. He built up a fine machine from nothing but green material and his eleven is entitled to great credit. Still, because of the fact that Everett beat the Newton and all the other league teams, the award of the crown to Newton will always be disputed.

Nobody seems to know what team is champion of the Hub City League. Both Latin and English lost one game, and we should have finished in a tie for the top, but there is some doubt about the final standing because it is claimed that Mechanic Arts, the only team to beat English, used an ineligible player against two blue and blue.

So far as we know, no decision has been handed down in the case, though some insist that English was awarded the game on a forfeit.

B. C. "Night Before" Smoker Tonight

Boston College's big "night before" smoker will be held at the City Club this evening while the Holy Cross cohorts celebrate their annual alcoline get-together at the University Club.

The rival coaches will be the main attractions at both festivities. Leo Daley will leave his Boston College charges in the care of his assistant coaches and journey into Boston to give a little fight talk to the gathering at the City Club.

Cleo O'Donnell will be the headliner at the University Club smoker. There will be many more attractions at the rival celebrations which stir up greater interest among the student body and alumni of both colleges.

Famous Jesuit Rivals Meet on Gridiron in Annual Contest on Braves Field Tomorrow

By MYLES T. McSWEENEY.

There have been many famous pairs of friends in this vale of tears.

We have the well known Castor and Pollux of ancient Rome.

We have had David and Jonathan in the Bible.

And there was Thomas and Jerry, famed far and wide in the days when men could raise a thirst and not die in convulsions.

There have also been many pair of famous enemies. Three come to mind at this particular time of the year.

They are Boston College and Holy Cross. Holy Cross and Boston College and Boston College and Holy Cross.

Tomorrow the two Jesuit rivals ride from Mount St. James in Worcester and the other from the Heights of Newton, meet on the field of football honor. That game is the local piece de resistance, or something. Other rivalries are expected to shatter the atmosphere that hovers over Braves Field with shouts and shrieks while the purple clad visitors clash with the maroon and gold warriors of Boston College.

DRAW BIG CROWD.

There is something that attracts large gatherings to the Boston College Holy Cross games each year. No matter what the records of the rivals are no matter how many times each has been ten, belted the other over the head with a stout club, injured many of the players so badly as to make them cripples for life, or even killed a few, the Eagle and the Purple battle each other tooth and nail.

It is not because the teams do anything besides play football. But there are many kinds of football, and herein lies the secret of the popularity of this final game.

Not all is mud and drink. We have many a clean and fair game of football. Sometimes it goes for a kick and a column full of argument. Some 3-0 wars, 7-0 bouts from both Chestnut Hill and Boston College meet. They are good football games. Have clean, hard, fast football. But CLEAN football.

There will not be any broken bones or criminal suits. That is, unless the boys have lost off training.

And one good thing about this game—no matter which team wins—no one cares. The forgotten half is eight miles in the sea long as the rival fans do not become exchange partners and come across the polished dancehall floor in front of the hotel.

ALUMNI GATHER TONIGHT.

From all reports, the largest crowd ever to witness a Boston College-Holy Cross game will crash the Wigwam. The Boston Elevated will run 85 special cars an hour from Park street, beginning at noon. We haven't figured it out, but we think it means that every twenty seven seconds, a loaded car will leave Park street for Braves Field.

A visit of Notre Dame will assemble today for the annual pep battle smoke talk. The Eagle will gather its sons under its wing at the City Club, while Holy Cross will rattle the windows of the University Club with songs and speeches.

After tomorrow, the open season for football reformers will begin and continue until next Fall.

If we ha that many free tickets, we would invite all the howlers about over-emphasis to Braves Field. There they would see a game, not over-emphasized, but like all worthwhile battles, one with just enough emphasis to satisfy.

Eagles' Squad Practice at Sandy Burr Club Course

A determined Boston College squad and a confident Holy Cross aggregation are together off in their war camps today and tomorrow the managers will be forced to send an [illegible] to and from the quiet solitude of the Sandy Burr Country Club. Coach Leo Daley is working frantically, like a cramming ha o's with football knowledge and watching over his brood of Eagles like a mother hen.

Tom Gridiron on Mt. St. James is a busy place with Cleo O'Donnell, coach of the Crusaders, trying with might and main to get a team into the pink of condition and help fill that [illegible] two-mile, snelly Bailey and Gus Cerasi will be left to join in the Purples attack on the Eagle at Braves Field tomorrow.

Boston College is sure of having its full strength. Captain Tom O'Brien, Boston College's most doubtful combatant, will be in the game if he has to be carried on the barred field by his teammates. Tom's ego is as good as it ought to be. But the slightly swollen muscle will be ready with a strapping of adhesive tape and an ankle support.

DEPEND ON CAPT. O'BRIEN.

B. C.'s hopes center around their hefty captain. With him in the Eagle line lows nearly half its strength. Seems hard to believe that any team would have a one man line, but it is the case at Boston College. No better example could be offered than when O'Brien was forced out of the Villanova game after taking a vicious dive at a flying [illegible].

Coach Leo Daley is as quiet as [illegible] and [illegible] this great [illegible] of his tackles but [illegible] sorry [illegible] pointment [illegible] Coach Daley [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Harvard Grid Gate Over Million Dollars

Over a million dollars came out of the pockets of approximately 340,000 football fans this year to see Harvard limp through another disastrous season in which the Crimson lost to Purdue, Dartmouth, Pennsylvania and Yale.

The nearest figures obtainable prior to the annual report of the Harvard graduate treasurer, show that $1,180,000 in cold American currency was spent by fans through the eight weeks which the Crimson team alternated in taking it on the chin in the even games and winning the odd games.

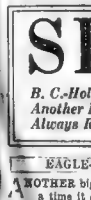
B. C.-Holy Cross Another Big Game Always Real War

Yale and Caldwell Bruce Happy Again Two Good Fights

By NICK FLATLEY

EAGLE-CRUSADER WAR STIRS UP FANS

ANOTHER big football game has Boston fans by the ears. For a time it did not look as if the yearly Holy Cross-Boston College war would stir up the customary interest. Both teams had been beaten and there was no early drive for tickets.



Nick Flatley

Things have changed in the last couple of days, however. The boys realize that another wild war will start at two o'clock tomorrow, and that seldom have these illustrious rivals ever gone into a collision with the decision more in doubt.

After the Eagles had assimilated that Georgetown beating, there was plenty of Holy Cross money offered at good odds. But the Eagles have come back splendidly, and will have their full strength to march out to open festivities at the Wigwam.

Holy Cross was worried a few days ago because Gus Cervini had such a badly bruised side that it looked as if he would have to watch the affair from the bench. Gus, one of the best linemen in the country, is a rugged young man, and staged one of those marvelous recoveries. He'll be just as good as new, and that's good.

This annual windup is always a fiery football game, with past records meaning not a thing. The teams take turns almost, running wild when they are supposed to be short enders. The favorites have just as tough a time coming through as they do in Yale-Harvard engagements.

Last year, the Eagles, Cav's last team, were on the long end. The only question in the boys' minds was the size of the score. But the game turned into a desperate scoreless tie. That's the way it goes.

Braves Field is a better football stage now than ever before. The gridiron has been switched around so that the soggy, always muddy stretch around home plate, that used to be the grandstand goal line, is no longer in the field of play.

The shift has made things better for the spectators in all parts of the field, and the spectators seem to realize it. They are dashing around madly today picking up the tickets that seemed destined for furnace fodder not more than a week ago.

COLGATE WISHES THAT THE IRON MEN HAD NOT SO MUCH SCRAP.

He was a football hero
Who was lauded to the sky;
But now he's just a student
Hoping that he can get by.

YOUNG CALDWELL HAS FORGOTTEN HIS WOES

YALE has done the graceful and gallant thing by Bruce Caldwell, dethroned football star. The kid, broken hearted a fortnight back, must be a happy youngster once more.

The Eli football team and Coach Tad Jones kicked in and gave Caldwell a watch. He was awarded his football letter. He has been more of a hero at New Haven since his retirement than he was before.

Now Yale athletic officials have agreed to let Bruce journey to the Coast and play the big East-West Shriners' game. Young Caldwell will be a mighty fine Yale representative out there, and will show the boys in the far parts some real running. The kick he will get out of going into action again will remove whatever sting is left from an experience that no youth should be forced to endure.

Won't be long now before the tales of baseball holdouts start rolling in. That's the first sign of real Winter.

BOSTON FIGHT FANS ARE CHEERFUL AGAIN

BOSTON fight fans are cheerful again. They have a couple of real scraps to look forward to, and their next two weeks will be happy if the postponement jinx can be kept out of town.

The mass between Honeyboy Finnegan and Tod Morgan gives one of the most popular scrappers ever developed hereabouts a real chance to climb. The Honeyboy is one of the ring's best showmen, and if he can get past the junior champ he will be the land's most dangerous contender for the lightweight title. If he licks Morgan he will have to be awarded a shot at the big crown.

Red Chapman still has a real claim on the featherweight throne. He was beaten by Benny Bass, but that was over in Benny's own backyard, and Red naturally had none the best of things. He didn't yell though, not being built that way. He's starting to fight back to the top.

He tackles a real warrior in Suggs, for the New Bedford negro is one of the classiest of the small boys. It takes a champion to lick him, any time.

NOW that Thanksgiving has passed, the mothers of our schoolboy football heroes will do some real thanksgiving.

B. U. Hockey Team After the Title

Boston University will make a strong bid for the Eastern collegiate hockey title this Winter.

The prospects of a championship team has the college all keyed up, for the last title Boston University won was in declining.

Two years ago the Terriers started their battle for hockey recognition by defeating Harvard and Boston College. These two colleges are considered to be the best teams in this part of the country. Last year Boston College bested the B. U. boys, but Harvard was defeated 3 to 1, but Harvard becomes of its superior reserve strength nosed out a 1 to 0 victory in an overtime game.

This Winter Boston University is ready to step out. The slow building process is over and Coach Dr. George Caw has a team. Every man that played on last year's team is back.

Captain Johnny Lawless is undoubtedly one of the best centers in college ranks. He was picked on many mythical colleges teams by experts last year. He is the best shot that ever wore the Red and White.

The goal will be guarded by Sid Silverberg for his third year. Sid was also picked on many teams as second only to Joe Morrill of Harvard.

Connor of N. Y. U. Moves Into 3rd Place

New York, Nov. 26 (A. P.)—Captain Jack Connor of New York University shoved Captain Johnny Roepke of Penn State College out of third place in the list of leading individual college football scorers in the East when he made a touchdown in the losing battle with Nebraska yesterday.

The leading ten are: Lane, Dartmouth, 118; Nork, Georgetown, 98; Connor, N. Y. U., 94; Roepke, Penn State, 89; South, Pittsburgh, 81; Hansell, Temple, 80; Ellis, Tufts, 80; Wittner, Princeton, 70; Colbert, Maine, 68; Welch, Pittsburgh, 66.

DIGNITARIES TO ATTEND BIG SERVICE GAME

Washington, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—With the high ranking officers of the Army and Navy in predominance, much of Washington's officialdom will trek to New York tomorrow to attend the annual football clash between the military and naval academies.

Heading the exodus from the capital, the two Cabinet members, Secretary Davis of the War Department and Secretary Wilbur of the Navy have in mind to witness the contest. While Mr. [illegible] is secretary and practically all of the leading generals and admirals of, respectively, the Army and Navy.

Of this group, two assistant secretaries of the Navy, Jahnson and Warner, are expected to attend while Major-General Summerall, Army Chief of Staff, Rear Admiral Royle, chairman of the Navy General Board, and Major-General Lejeune, commandant of the Marine Corps will be other distinguished personages.

The Army's main reliance will be in its great backfield with the brunt of the work falling on the shoulders of Captain Wilson, Red Cagle, Stone and Murrell. Dean and Harbold probably will do most of the [illegible] labor.

Lloyd, the backfield star of the Navy, and Hamilton, another great passer, are expected to shine for the seagoing outfit. Lloyd, whose [illegible] ground gaining ability has been a feature of all the Navy games this season, undoubtedly will get a big share of the assaults on the Army line in addition to his passing activities.

75,000 Will Witness Army-Navy Clash

New York, Nov. 25 (A.P.)—Hosts of the Army and Navy mobilized today in preparation for the annual gridiron battle at the Polo Grounds tomorrow, which will be witnessed by a throng of upwards of 75,000. The fighting forces from West Point have gone through a season marred only by a defeat at the hands of Yale and therefore are favorites to vanquish the naval foes, who have suffered sharp reversals from Notre Dame and Michigan. Notre Dame was an Army victim.

Out of twenty-one yearly meetings on the football field, Army has won fourteen games, Navy has taken two and three were drawns. Navy's last triumph over the Army was a 7-0 victory in 1921.

SLUGGERS MEET IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Nov. 25 (A.P.)—Two knockout artists, whose mitts have proved their sleep-producing qualities, tangle at the Coliseum tonight for ten rounds—or less—with Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, trying to climb up to the light heavyweight throne over the prostrate form of Paul Berlenbach, the Astoria assassin of other days.

Once before this month, Walker polished off a prominent Light heavyweight, the venerable Mike McTigue, in less than one round. Berlenbach is just as devastating with his body punches, as Walker has been with his shots at the jaw.

It will be Berlenbach's first appearance in Chicago, where Walker has grown to be a favorite. If odds so, the betting odds are even on the result.

The middleweight champion will be giving away a few pounds to Berlenbach but Walker's poundage title will not be risked, as both will make around 170 pounds.

In the semi-windup, Mr. Sullivan, welterweight, St. Paul relative and protege of Mike and Tom Gibbons, meets Tommy Freeman of Cleveland.

Tufts Grid Record Is Unequalled

New York, Nov. 25 (A.P.)—While search is not over, Rice, Tufts College remains the only unbeaten and untied eleven in the East with Pittsburgh, Washington and Jefferson, Springfield and Union still to be met. Tufts is not [illegible] a record of the more important colleges:

	Undefeated games
	Won.	Lost.	Tied	pts.	pts.
Tufts	8	0	0	218	19
Pittsburgh	8	0	1	228	26
Geneva	8	0	1	242	25
W. and J.	7	0	2	151	24
Springfield	7	0	2	193	26

U. S. Davis Cup Team to Challenge France

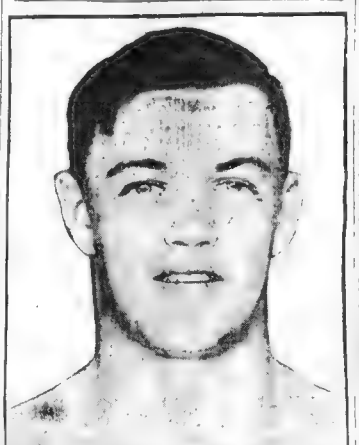
New York, Nov. 25 (A.P.)—As a matter of expediency the United States will challenge to regain the Davis Cup, standard of tennis supremacy, in the American zone, the Davis Cup committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association has decided.

The Lawn Tennis Association will pass upon the committee's action next month, and, if approved the challenge will be formally forwarded to France, defender of the trophy.

MISSOURI TIGERS ANNEX THIRD FOOTBALL TITLE

Kansas City, Nov. 25 (A.P.).—Consecutive [illegible] with a smooth aerial offensive available for emergencies, brought the Missouri Tigers their third mythical Missouri Valley Conference championship in four years. The Tigers secured their claim to the title yesterday by defeating Oklahoma University, 20 to 7, before a Missouri home-coming crowd.

MEETS CLASS CHAMP



ALL BOSTON WARMS UP

To the Honeyboy Finnegan-Tod Morgan bout under the auspices of the Argonne A. A. a week from tonight in Mechanics Building. Morgan is the junior lightweight champion. Honeyboy's picture here indicates that champions don't scare him.

HONEYBOY TO TRAIN AT WAMESIT

"Dick "Honeyboy" Finnegan has started hard training for his impending ring conflict with Tod Morgan, world's junior lightweight champion, at Mechanics Building, Friday night, October 2, under the direction of the Argonne A. A.

The Dorchester boy is back at his training quarters at Wamesit and with Jerry Gallagher again handling his condition.

Dan Carroll [illegible] to the ring in better condition than ever before.

In meeting Morgan, Finnegan faces his first real test in the ranks of the lightweights. The latter does not expect to fight as a welterweight, but now he has his eyes on Sammy Mandell's 135 pound crown.

Finnegan already has built himself into a big drawing card in the lightweight division and he can beat the junior champion the local boy will own up as one of the most dangerous contenders for the lightweight crown.

Morgan sent word to the Argonne club that he will be in the ring to complete his training for the coming Tuesday. By arriving here early, Morgan is sure to make many new friends. Already he is popular here.

Finnegan faces the most vicious puncher he has ever faced in Morgan. Only recently the coast boy has held Sammy Loyola to nine rounds in Chicago.

Neither boy has met defeat [illegible] 1927, and for this reason the fight looms up as one of the best of the year. Morgan will train daily at Tim Toland's gym. His training will start at 2:30 and it is expected that many of the fans will be on hand for a peek at him.

Turning Point of Gene Tunney's Career

By GENE TUNNEY,

No man could have convinced me that I wasn't a first class boxer as I luxuriated in my dressing room after I had out-pointed Battling Levinsky and earned my first title, the light heavyweight championship.

723 of Fair Sex on Rolls at Yale University

New Haven, Nov. 25.—With 723 members of the fair sex to adorn the classrooms and campus, Yale University has a total of 3,457 students, made up of the coeds and 4,734 men. Out of the total the candidates for degrees or certificates number 5,967.

Yale College has the largest enrollment of any school or department of the university, with 1,808 students. The Sheffield Scientific School has 959; freshman year 826, graduate school, 631; school of medicine, 212; divinity school, 219; law, 262; fine arts, 311; music, 100; forestry, 44; and nursing, 19.

Connecticut leads the country in students listed for the entire university with 1,502. New York is represented by 923; Pennsylvania, 353; Massachusetts, 322; Ohio, 261; New Jersey, 240, and Illinois, 138. Other States are represented in a lesser degree.

MEXICO EXPOSE CREATES STIR IN ENGLAND

London, Nov. 25.—Under the heading "last year's coal strike, support from Mexico, rem kable revelations," the Daily Telegraph, owned and edited by Lord Burnham, and the most widely read newspaper in the chancelleries of Europe today, printed prominently the disclosures that President Calles of Mexico contributed $100,000 to last year's coal strike, which threatened to destroy the industrial life of England.

Full credit was given to the Hearst newspapers in a paragraph which preceded the article in question as follows:

"INTERESTING" TO ENGLAND.

"The extensive combination of newspapers owned in the United States by W. R. Hearst, recently has been publishing a series of articles relating to the support which, it is alleged, Senor Calles, present of the Republic of Mexico, has been giving to the cause of Bolshevism.

"The truth of these articles is not within interest to English reader, as it tends to show that Pres. Calles gave financial support to last year's coal strike."

Such efforts of the government are known to be following the old Comintern comedy. Open comment in these official sources is being withheld for intricate reasons.

MINISTER'S DENIAL.

Senor Valenzuela, Mexican Minister to Great Britain, through whom the money was alleged to have been transmitted, made the following statement to the Central News:

"The allegation that President Calles supported Bolshevism in general and last year's strike in England in particular is pure invention.

"President Calles is a constructive working Socialist, but has no sympathy with Bolshevist methods.

"Political exiles from Mexico have for a long time manufactured a supply of documents for powerful American interests seeking not only to create difficulties between Mexico and the United States, but also to benefit thereby pecuniarily."

ON HOSPITAL SCREENS

CLARA BOW IN "GET YOUR MAN"

Hundreds of shutins in Boston institutions have been cheered this week by Clara Bow's latest film. Under arrangements made by the Boston Evening American and the Metropolitan Theatre, the film has been shown to former service men and others in hospitals. Charles "Buddy" Rogers is shown in a scene with Clara.

SHUTINS CHEER CLARA BOW

In her latest comedy, "Get Your Man" which is to be shown tomorrow at the Metropolitan Theatre, Clara Bow, the "flaming flapper of the screen," captivated several hundred invalided gobs at the Chelsea Naval Hospital Wednesday night at a pre-Thanksgiving celebration. She did the same thing all over again at the Veterans' Hospital at West Roxbury after a turkey dinner was served.

Clara positively stole on the laughs in her latest romp with the screen's men. "If this is hospital life we've been missing," said [illegible]

"Get Your Man," not only caused plenty of laughter, but at both institutions was a pleasant change from the "straight" comedies that have been shown in the last several parties of this sort. Executives of the Metropolitan and editors of the Boston Evening American had hoped for just this reaction; both operating institutions had wanted the cheerful entertainment to be a little different and waited for a picture that would not only plenty of comedy but a powerful, healthy love interest as well. The result was "Get Your Man."

Tonight the picture will be shown to the patients at the Boston Sanatorium Milton, where several hundred [illegible] and wounded [illegible] confined [illegible] ailments.

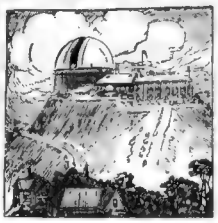
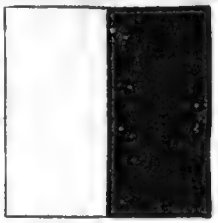
The Story of the Stars

(The Size of the Sun)

By Garrett P. Serviss

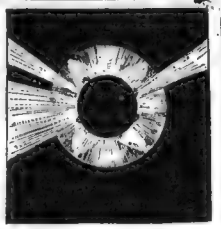


The first of the huge modern telescopes, placed on mountain tops, was the Lick telescope set up in 1888 on Mt. Hamilton, California. On Mt. Wilson California, are two larger telescopes.



A large telescope shows millions of stars where the naked eye sees but a few thousand. In this way it "penetrates space. Compare the telescope with the naked-eye view, as illustrated above.

In the solar system the undisputed master is the Sun, which holds the center. The Sun's power of attraction is proportional to its weight compared with the earth. Note difference in size.



To the naked eye, unaided, the Sun is a great blazing ball, but during eclipses it appears surrounded by envelopes, such as the great streamers, called the Corona.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

(1) Is it necessary for the bride to meet the groom at the altar, or can they walk up the aisle together

(1) Some say the bride must be given away by some member of her family. Please advise me which is proper. A READER.

IT is never considered good form, even in informal weddings, for the bride and groom to walk up the aisle together. They literally, on the wedding day, "meet at the altar." And there is never any reason why they should walk up the aisle together. The groom and his best man wait at the chancel steps. The bride comes up the aisle, either last in the processional, or after one attendant, or only with the male relative who is to give her in marriage, or, if she wishes, alone.

(2) It is not strictly necessary that the bride be presented in marriage but it is customary for this to be done. If she has no father, an older brother or a younger one, for that matter, or an uncle, or a cousin, or sometimes an older man friend of her family. Often the bride is given in marriage by her mother.

The LOVELORN

A Love Serial of Boston Girls by an Authority on the Affairs of the Heart

CHAPTER 22.

IN the lower hall with its high ceilings and bare walls, a single light glowed dimly. The cage of the elevator, as large as that of a freight elevator, was empty.

Ernest grinned around grimly. "We'll have to walk up," he muttered. "That fellow's down in the cellar shooting craps again. Come on—it's only three flights."

The steps were of stone, and a latticework of iron walled the stairway. Georgie's breath was coming with difficulty. Somehow she felt weary. She resented now the pride and folly with which she had taken up his challenge. It was so dark here, so gloomy and forbidding.

Then she laughed at herself. As if she were afraid of Ernest Brooks—afraid of him. Why the only harm in coming here was that she was simply putting off the moment when she would have to say good-by.

He opened his door, and lighted the lamps in the studio. The pale yellow glow softened everything now, but did not penetrate far. She could scarcely make out the ceilings in the blackness. The easel in the corner had assumed fantastic outlines.

"Wait here a minute. I'll get something to drink."

He moved away, and she heard him in the kitchenette, heard him cracking ice, collecting glasses. He came back presently with a tray and two tall highballs.

Georgie didn't care for liquor. She hated the taste, but she liked to pretend she was modern and easy and natural. She liked too, the confidence that alcohol gave her. She sipped hers, and made a face. It seemed to her stronger than anything he had offered her before. It burned her throat a little.

She was sitting on the broad couch that was heaped with pillows, her legs stretched straight before her, her back against the wall. He would of course come over and sit next to her, take her hand, touch her hair, kiss her throat. And she would tell him calmly, with a quietly sophisticated smile, that it was all quite useless.

But Ernest Brooks did nothing of the sort. He sat down in a battered Morris chair, resting his highball on the arm of it. He seemed to have no inclination to bother her, make love to her. He gave her no chance to show him she didn't care a bit.

He was talking quietly, talking about Italy, about Old World cities, about olive trees and blue water and bluer skies.

"I'd like to take a house for a while. Servants are cheap. Of course the food gets monotonous, but it's good. There are compensations of that and then Paris. You'd like Paris—everyone does."

"Then you don't love me"

"Oh, but I do—at least I think I do. I'd rather be with you than anyone, and I've never met any other man like you. I—I don't know what to say—I don't know what to tell you."

"I want you to tell me with action—not with words. The Carinthia sails from here tomorrow night—nine o'clock. I've got passage booked, everything, a passport made out—you only have to slip your picture on it—I can fix everything . . . I want you to come along with me"

"But—but there's Ann—you want me to hurt Ann—"

"It won't do her any harm, will it?" I just want to teach her a lesson. Are you going to be bossed by her all your life long. Why don't you know how you can get even for once. Why when you and I get to Italy—"

He turned before she expected and put his arms around her. He kissed her mouth, held her close to him, murmured words in her ear. Georgie, pressed her eyes and hair, told her he could not live without her.

And she was caught up by a kind of spell, so that when she broke away, she could not think at all, and her head was whirling

"Let me go, Ernest, let me go"

"I want your answer."

"I tell you I don't know. I don't know" Then all at once she gave a cry that was half despairing. She caught up her hat, almost ran to the door, closed behind her, hurried down the stairs Sobs choked her. Why was she so unhappy—why was she so wretched and miserable? Was she really sad good-by? Wouldn't she ever see him again? Why, she must go in love with him! She would never find a man like him again. And—he was just different. That was it. He would be different. Of course he loved her. Why had she run away like that? She must tell him, she must try to explain. A drug store on the corner seemed to beckon her. She went inside and called his number.

Tomorrow—Georgie decides on a fatal step—for a girl.

Georgie Laughed, Released Herself From His Arms

It was as she smiled that he rose swiftly, went over to her, and caught her hands.

But pleading with her, he found the right words—the words she could not resist

"At least Georgie, you'll say good-by. Because this is good-by, isn't it? We've had some great times together, haven't we? It's a shame we can't have any more of the same"

Good-by—oh, could she say that to him? After all he was the only man in the whole clever mob who had a real fascination for her. She clung to him now, as if she were clinging to youth and to her perishable prettiness.

"Ernest, I'm sorry—I'm sorry—you don't know"

"But why do you have to be? I love you—and you don't hate me. You've told me that. Why is it you're afraid?"

"Because," she said with sudden illumination, "you don't really love me."

"What do you mean? Haven't I shown it—every way I can?"

"Every way you can?" She laughed, released herself from his arms. "Why, Ernest, if you were really in love with me—you'd want to marry me right now. You know you would"

He turned his back, walked away from her, with short, angry steps.

"It's hard to explain, I guess," he said at last. "You just can't get things straight. Listen! I'll try to tell you. I've seen men marry women who didn't care a rap about them. Well, I don't want to be one of them—I'm not going to be one of them. I'm going to start straight out—whether you like it or not. I've got a little money—I live a good life

"Practically speaking, I'm not a bad chance for you. Ordinarily you'd marry the bookkeeper, or the boss's secretary. Well, I'm better than that anyway! How do I know you love me? Just one way. By finding out if you're willing to take a chance—it is a chance—by finding out if you're willing to live with me—if you care enough for that. That's the only thing that would convince me."

"But I know whether I love you or not."

'Sally's Shoulders'; Heroine Is Wondering Where Beau Obtained His Money

ding down the stairs to the flat below

"Oh, you poor paluka" Sally called to him cheerfully She felt more cheerful somehow now that he was going "Oh, you poor paluka, why don't you let well enough alone?"

In the little bedroom with its two beds set close to each other, Millie was waiting for her.

She was sitting beside the open window, biting the warm night breeze blow in upon her half-dry hair, and she was peacefully ripping up Sally's black satin dress with an old safety razor blade.

"Christopher Colombo! What are you doing to my dress?" asked Sally, her eyes wide.

Millie lifted her head, "Can't you see, Dumb Dolly?" she asked in her slow, raspy little voice. "Ripping up this dress you threw away."

"I threw it away! Why I never did any such thing!" declared Sally "And you know it! I told you it wasn't any good the way it was, and I—"

"And you said you were through with it!" broke in Millie. She pleasedly ripped a few more inches of seam with her blade

"I'm going to make a bathing suit out of it," she added. "It's no good for anything else. You can have what's left for your scrap bag."

"I can have what's left for my scrap bag! Well, that's good, isn't it?" asked Sally She was acarlet with indignation. She had been planning on wearing that dress for another two months—until it was cold enough to buy a cloth dress for the Winter.

She rushed across the room and pulled the shrieking black object from her sister's hands, rolled it up and slid it at the foot of her bed.

"My stars" she cried her eyes blazing. "If that isn't like you—cutting up a good dress! What do you thing I'm going to wear to work? Tar paper? Here! If you want to do any sewing you might as well have it! She had taken one of Millie's dresser drawers, and was flinging pair after pair of holey stockings at her. "Mend them, if you're so full of pep and want some work to do"

"Children! Children" came Mrs Jerome's voice from the open doorway. "Birds in their little nests agree"

Every now and then she seemed to forget that her children were grown, and talked to them as if they still were the tiny things they had been years before.

In the hall behind her the telephone trilled, and Millie bounded out to answer it. The one and only time when Millie moved quickly was when she thought one of her "sweeties" might be calling her up. Otherwise her slow, lazy, honeyswest drawl that made men think what a nice, good-natured little fat girl she was "Hello—yes, it's you, Mr. Davidson? O-o-oh, I'm just fine-e-e"

Sally and her lips and shook her head in honest wrath

"Look at her" she said to her mother in a low intense tone. "Cut up the only between-seasons dress I've got to make a bathing suit out of it! Ever hear of such a thing? Now I've got to sew it all together again"

When Millie came back to the bedroom she had evidently decided not to be on speaking terms with her sister She pretended not to hear when Sally spoke to her. She dried her own hair, and Sally let her do it.

In silence they got ready for bed In silence they lay down and went to sleep a few feet away from each other. Sisters.

The next night Beau came home with the new guitar that he had craved. And not only with the guitar, but with a new and remarkable sports sweater that resembled Rosemary coat of many colors.

"I can play it, too," he said

"The sweater?" asked Sally, wickedly

"No, the guitar, you simp," answered Beau, who had very little sense of humor.

He could play it, too. That is, he could play one tune on it, and that was an old one, called "Mamie Stree"

It was a lovely, lilting sort of tune, however, and the sound of it brought Sally from the kitchen, where she was hurrying with the supper.

"Play it in double time, and I'll show you a new dance that Ted and I made up," she said, her night-blue eyes dancing "Play it in double time—" And, as he did, she started to dance.

To see Sally dance was a joy. For she loved to dance, anyone who looked at her could see that she loved it. She frolicked like a happy child on a breezy day. She whirled lightly as a leaf in the wind. Dancers are born, not made, and Sally was a born dancer.

"Atta girl" she heard a deep voice behind her say, and she stopped dead in the middle of the living room floor. Against the shadowy background of the hall stood a man she never had seen before. A good looking blond man in a gray suit and a necktie striped like a candy cane The kind of man who knows everything there is to know about some things. A man about town is what we usually call such a man

"Oh, you must be Millie's Mr Davidson!" said Sally, all out of breath. And then she saw that Ted had come up the stairs—drawn by the sound of music and dancing feet, no doubt—and was standing just behind him.

"Come in, both of you," she said, and left Beau to introduce them.

She rushed back to the bedroom where Millie was making herself beautiful before the mirror.

"Your Mr. Davidson's here!" she told her. "And oh, isn't he good looking as that John Nye man," ile and she had spoken in a whole day.

Millie shrugged her shoulders and looked bored. "He's not half so good looking as that John Nye Man," she remarked in a matter of fact way. "And I can hardly wa't until I start working for him. This David son is just a once-in-a-Millie for me."

Sally felt as if a sudden wind had chilled her to the marrow.

"Go on in there and talk to him," Millie went on peevishly. "If you don't, Ted will try to se il him a car and Beau's just as likely as not to ask him for a loan. You know it, don't you?"

Sue opened a paste-board box that was lying on the bed and took a dress from it. A pale blue flannel dress that Sally never had seen before.

"Why, where did you get that?" she asked, as Millie shook it out and flipped it over her head. "I never saw it before Is it new?"

Her sister smiled. "It's as new as it ever was," she answered dryly. "And it was pretty new once upon a time."

Sally went back to the living room with a troubling question in her mind . . . Yesterday . . . and Millie had both been penniless, or almost penniless. Now each of them seemed to have plenty of money Where had it come from?

To be Continued Tomorrow.

South is the dealer. What is the proper bidding and play?

In the Monday's issue Mr. Whitehead will explain the salient points in the bidding and play of the above hand. Fill out your own chart and compare it with his method

Three hands must not be bid or played "Double Dummy," i. e., as though all four hands were exposed.

Salient Points of the Bidding

South, holding all four suits stopped and three doubly stopped, bids one No Trump, although lacking the high card strength that would be generally required for his bid North, with 2½ Quick tricks and a suit out of which South could count three immediate tricks, bids two five-card Majors, two spades headed by the Ace-Queen, four over a side Ace, making a bidder slam bid of two spades South and West passing. North bids three Diamonds East passes, South bids three No Trumps, correctly inferring that North's three Diamond bid, after passing on the first round, was intended to encourage, and not discourage a further bid of No Trumps if holding protection against a Spade lead.

Salient Points of the Play

Trick 1. East, reading West's lead of his highest Spade as showing no more than three, places South with at least three to the King-Jack, and therefore passes the first trick.

Trick 2 South sees that he cannot go game without establishing one or more Diamond tricks. To attempt to enter the Dummy with a Club risks the immediate play of the Ace and the lead of another Club, which, East, if not holding the Ace of Diamonds, will again pass South, therefore, must enter the Dummy with a Heart and lead a Diamond through East hoping to find East with the Queen, or even Ace Queen.

Trick 4. East, having had his only opportunity to show strength, can not hope to set the contract, or save game, unless West holds a Diamond stopper and two more Spades. He therefore plays a losing Spade. Against this defense, South's contract is set for two tricks.

Mr. Whitehead will answer questions concerning your Bridge problems. Write to him care of this paper, enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope.

A Wife's Meditations

By HELEN ROWLAND

"WOMEN are just as human as men," declares a psychologist, "They have the same desires, instincts and passions as men."

Certainly the modern girl seems trying to prove that. And yet—and yet there is something all wrong about her philosophy. It has not brought her happiness! Under the skin, the typical flapper with all her bravado is the most bitterly unhappy and unsatisfied person in the world.

• • •

Why? Because she is going against nature. Women are NOT naturally as "human" or as "earthy" as men. God made woman of a little finer clay for His own good reasons.

• • •

A woman may have the same reactions, the same desires and the same primitive passions — a man, but somehow she manages to glorify them and make them more delicate and beautiful.

• • •

To a normal woman, the most casual and trivial love is somehow a shining and glorified thing. To a man, such a love is just plain amusement, adventure or a passing passion.

Long after he has forgotten her name, she is still dreaming of his kisses and trying to recall an imaginary tender look in his eyes.

To a man, a casual kiss is—just a kiss which passes out of his mind the moment he leaves a woman. To the girl, it is a tender, hazy memory, which encases her whole day and illuminates all her little day dreams.

To a man, food is food; something to please the palate and satisfy the inner man. To a woman a meal is something to be served daintily with flowers and silver and music.

• • •

To a man, the most beautiful woman is, after all, "only a woman." But to a girl, a handsome, personable man is always a possible Prince Charming; and behind his classic profile, she imagines she sees beauties of character, charms of mind and fineness of emotions.

• • •

Woman is finer than man—and she can't get AWAY from herself! Every time she tries, she merely gets farther away from nature—and from HAPPINESS.

Using 'Left Over' Turkey Treats

By MARTHA LEE.

NOW that the great day is over I can just picture many of you looking at the gaunt remnants of what was once a handsome bird and wondering how on earth you can prepare the remains in a way to appeal to a family who after the feast now would not care if they never saw turkey again.

I do believe in serving them a rest today and tomorrow, if possible By Saturday night they perhaps will not frown on white meat sliced cold and served attractive, and by Sunday I am sure the family will be glad to enjoy the national bird served in any of the following ways

Creamed Turkey—Arrange in the bottom of a buttered casserole or baking dish a layer of the cold turkey dressing and over this arrange good sized pieces of the leftover turkey meat. Melt two tablespoons of butter and two tablespoons of flour together and slowly add one and one-half cups rich milk, stir to a smooth sauce

Last of all add the beaten yolks of three eggs and a teaspoon of salt Pour this sauce over the turkey Next peel and chop one pound of mushrooms (they are reasonable now), and fry them tender in butter.

Add to them one-quarter cup of bread crumbs, two tablespoons of butter, and one teaspoon salt. Spread this over the sauce and bake in a hot oven for about twelve minutes This is truly delicious

Turkey New Orleans—Slice the cold turkey as attractively as possible and arrange the slices overlapping each other in a shallow baking dish Brush over with a little melted butter and heat piping hot. For the sauce, chop together one white onion and two green peppers from which the seeds have been removed

Cook these in one tablespoon butter and five minutes or until tender Add one tablespoon flour and one can tomato soup, seasoned with a teaspoon of sugar and a teaspoon of salt. Blend all together and add six chopped mushrooms, sliced, and one teaspoon of chopped parsley

Serve the sauce in a boat set on a platter around which the turkey slices have been arranged

Turkey croquettes are really delicious and not at all difficult to prepare.

Turkey Croquettes—You can use either all turkey meat or if you prefer, half turkey and half veal Use one-half cup of tongue and one-half cup lean boiled ham to two cups turkey meat. This recipe will use up the small odd pieces of the bird. The pieces should be cut very small, and added to a sauce made in this way.

Lend together in a saucepan two and one-half tablespoons flour and two and one-half tablespoons butter Add one cup milk and stir until very smooth and thick. Add one-half teaspoon salt, and one-quarter teaspoon pepper, and one-half teaspoon paprika or cayenne. Let this sauce cook a double boiler at least fifteen minutes then add the meat mixture and cook fifteen minutes longer.

Last of all add two beaten eggs yolks, three tablespoons bread crumbs, and one tablespoon vinegar, beat up well, cook fifteen minutes longer, and pour into a dish to cool.

Shape in croquettes, roll in beaten egg, then in fine bread crumbs, and let stand in the ice chest for an hour. Fry golden brown in deep fat. Serve with either leftover gravy or the following tomato sauce

Tomato Sauce—Mix together three tablespoons butter, one chopped green pepper, one cup strained tomato juice, one-quarter teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, and one-half teaspoon sugar. Simmer for ten minutes and thicken with one tablespoon of water and two tablespoons flour mixed smooth

And to use the frame-work of our sadly depleted turkey. Turkey soup, properly made, is truly a dish fit to set before a king. This is how to extract every bit of rich drop of flavor and nutriment from the remnants:

Turkey Soup — Into a large, smooth kettle put all the leftover skin and bones of the turkey, two cups of the dressing, the leftover creamed onions, if there were any, the leftover gravy and cut up celery leaves and the tough stalks Cover this collection with cold water and set over the simmering pot of your own range or on the back of the stove.

Let it slowly to a boil and simmer for at least three hours, or until every particle of meat falls from the bones. Of course, you will have to use your own judgment on whether more water should be added

Personally, I like a thick, rich turkey soup with some body to it.

Household Hints

Sago that has been soaked in water or milk until quite soft is an excellent substitute for baking powder. Use one teacupful of dry sago to four of flour.

Patent leather can be made to last twice as long by the application of a little vaseline once a week and it will be and polish with a soft duster.

Pour into a basin some boiling water and stretch the stained article above it. With a pad or rag on the end of a short stick rub in salts of lemon, then pour over more boiling water. Rinse in water to which carbonate of soda has been added in the proportion of two teaspoonfuls to a pint of water. This safeguards the fabric from the effect of the salts of lemon, which is a deadly poison. Do not allow it to touch the hands.

num. A little pumice powder on a damp rag is most effective.

Keep Your Skin Young and Pretty

Faded or freckled faces are, to say the least, ugly, and appear more so, when women, who no longer care to show their age, cover them with powder and rouge foolishly believing that such a coverlet will mask the unsightliness of their skin. You can and change the effect, which the worst oil skin gives, without first removing the cause. Surprising results can be with pure mercolized wax Get an ounce at any drug store and use as directed, and see the hard outer skin peel off, gently but surely. In a few days, the beautiful skin underneath, blooms forth clear, young and girlish Mercolized wax brings out the hidden beauty. To quickly remove wrinkles and age signs, use as face lotion 1½ ounces powdered saxolite and ½ half pint witch hazel.

Let Head Decide

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX.

"I'M through with men!"

"I don't believe there's a good man in the world!"

These and similar candid statements of opinion occur in letters I receive when Sally or Betty or June or Marie writes in bitter vein about love and marriage and men. In the same day's mail I am likely to come across a bit of pessimistic philosophy on the subject of girls in a letter from "Baffled Man" or "Bachelor of Twenty-two."

Judging by my experience with this country of advice to girls, five years is likely to find bitter Betty, pessimistic Sally, hopeless Sue and heart-broken June, each deliriously in love with one of those maddening young men, either engaged or married to him—while "Bashful Man" will be proudly marching down the church aisle with his blushing bride and bachelor—a bachelor no longer—will be supporting a wife and pushing the baby's perambulator Saturday afternoon, blissfully content with his lot in life.

There is a certain tendency to antagonism between the sexes which must be reckoned with. This is caused possibly—at least in part—by lack of understanding. It is hard for young men and young women to understand each other and the motives back of certain illogical actions, which make the perpetual masculine and eternal feminine a puzzle to each other. What we can't understand we sometimes fear and dislike, even while we are attracted by its romance.

"I can't understand why I treat Frank so badly," Kay confided "I love him, yet I tease him, and break dates with him, and sometimes, just to make him jealous, I make a great fuss over other boys if I didn't care for him I could be much nicer to him!"

Kay at seventeen doesn't understand herself or her own conflicting emotions. So it is little wonder that Frank fails to understand her. Some day when she is especially capricious he will suddenly decide she cares nothing for him and will go away—perhaps marry a girl he doesn't care for, just to forget or to spite Kay.

On the other hand I know a young man who is breaking the heart of the girl who loves him, and whom he loves with "everlasting love," he tells me. They had a quarrel three years ago. She told him not to come to see her again.

Later, she wrote, apologizing for her hasty words. But his pride will not permit him to reply to her letter or to go to her and tell her of his love as he longs to do.

Team work between heart and head is both kind and protection to love, avoiding tragic misunderstandings.

I know of men who are not content until they can arouse infatuation in any woman who is both attractive and indifferent. The moment love is aroused in a woman by his alluring wooing, a man of this type loses all interest in her and withdraws as gracefully as he can. For the fun during the responsibility, and want only the thrill of pursuit and conquest.

Also, there are countless women who encourage a man to seriously love them for the sake of gifts or money or possibly because they enjoy flattering attentions and feel that proposals of marriage are a proof of popularity and charm.

Some girl or man who plunges headlong into love without consulting his lyt-lligence, is always prey for these thoughtless or cruel human vampires.

Girls who refuse, laugh and tell —when a man does them the honor of proposing marriage, are one of the reasons why men have grown very cautious about proposing marriage. As a matter of self-protection a man is likely to talk much of love, little of marriage until he is sure that the girl appreciates and reciprocates his love.

Most girls try to study a man whom they regard as a possible life partner. But before they decide whether he fills all sensible requirements as to character and suitability they are likely to fall in love with him. Even though you love your heart, hang onto your head. And let your head make your final decisions.

Even disappointed love may in time make you more sympathetic, understanding, lovable, free from the bitterness of sex-antagonism, able to listen to and obey both your heart and head in solving problems of romance. Then you will be able to attract and win love that is real, love that is wise and deeply satisfying and leads to a marriage of lasting success and devotion.

HOW TO GET ON

When a boy I liked to whittle. People would say: "When he grows up he'll whittle something worth while." I kept whittling until I was past 30, but I couldn't think of anything to whittle that was really worth the time I was willing to spend on it. Then one day I got an idea. I whittled a life-sized lady's leg and put a stocking on it. Then I rigged up a traffic signal—when the gong sounded the lady's leg would kick out. Now my traffic signal is the only one that really stops motorists. My royalties are enormous, but it isn't so much the money that I enjoy. It's the principle of the thing.

YOUNG WOMEN MAY KEEP WELL

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Here is Proof

St. Paul, Minn.—"Here is a little advice I would like to have you put in the papers," wrote Mrs. Jack Lorberter of 704 Dellwood Place to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company. "If young women want to keep their health and strength for the next thirty years of their lives, it is best to start right now and take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have tried the Compound myself and received fine results." In describing her condition before taking the Compound, she writes, "I was afraid in my own house in broad daylight, I used to lock the doors and pull down the shades so that nobody could see me." One day a booklet advertising the Vegetable Compound was left on her porch and she read it through. In so doing, she found a letter from a woman whose condition was similar to her own. "I bought the Vegetable Compound," Mrs. Lorberter continued, "and have had fine results. The condition I was in made me a burden to my husband. Now I ask "How is housekeeping?" and he says "It is just like being in Heaven!"

No Fear Now of Offense!

So Sweet and Clean Inside! No Offensive Vapors From the Pores

Once a person realises the wonderful properties in cascara no other laxative in the market would ever be considered.

It's no trick to "clean out the bowels." Dozens of things will do that. But a little natural cascara purifies the system clear through. Cleanses even the pores of your skin. Renders perspiration inoffensive as a morning dew! The old-fashioned way was "salts." They get action, but they take the mucous membrane along with the waste matter! Mineral oils are gentler, but they leave the bowels with a film of poisons for the blood to carry off through the pores. But when you cascarize the system, you get rid of all the poisons by normal muscular action of the bowels.

If you have the habit of taking medicine for constipation, or even for auto-intoxication, stop it. For a candy cascaret is a delightful form in which to take cascara; children love them; and the taste tempts most grown-ups to have "more."

And what a comfort to know you are in that clean, wholesome condition that does away with any need of deodorants, even in warmest weather! Try a cascaret tonight—see how you feel next day, and for days after! With the skin fresh and fragrant. All

"MY OLD DREAD of unpleasant vapors when I was excited or warm used to spoil a party for me. It was even worse after a purging. It was a good friend who told me the wholesome sweetening of one or two—

THE WITTY SAYINGS OF MEDBURY---BY JOHN P. MEDBURY

ACCORDING to the last census there are over 100,000 hoboes in the country. A hobo is a man who's unemployed in the Summer and out of work in the Winter.

HE loves to do nothing and does it as often as possible.

THE Greeks have their gods, and the tramps are our idles.

ONE fellow has been loafing eight and a half years; it would have been nine, but he was in bed for six months.

HE was very fortunate when it came to work; he never found any.

HE used to read the want ads and then pray that the jobs were taken.

HE had lots of ambition, but it was in his wife's name.

HE'S on the road all Summer, but she doesn't know he's a bum. She thinks he's in jail.

HE'S very fond of motoring and tours the country in parrot wagons.

EVERY police station is a tourist camp.

THE sheriff's van was his ancestor's covered wagon.

HE used to belong to the hobo's union, but he took a bath and was expelled for treason.

HONESTY isn't always the best policy. He was put out of the organization for coming clean.

A CONSCIENTIOUS tramp will very seldom be arrested. The constables don't want to get their jails soiled.

ONE hobo was so shabby that the bulldogs used to bite him and then brush their teeth.

HE has trans-continental dyspepsia, food at back doors. He's suffering from cross-country indigestion.

HE has trans-continental dyspepsia.

HOBOING is the easiest profession in the world. Anybody can be a tramp. All you need is nothing to do and plenty of time to do it in.

Stomach Troubles Headache and Dizziness

If your stomach is sick, you are sick all over. If you can't digest your food, you lose strength and "pep," get thin and nervous and feel as tired when you get up as when you went to bed.

For 10 years Tanlac improved the health and activity of many thousands who suffered just as you do. Here is a letter from

Mr. William H. Champeaux of 141 Pleasant St., Worcester, Mass.: "I was troubled a great deal from indigestion and after eating was miserable for hours. After three bottles of Tanlac those tortures are but a memory. I can eat anything and have regained my youthful strength."

Why not let Tanlac do for you what it did for this sufferer and for thousands of others? It is marvelous to see how it relieves the most obstinate digestive troubles—relieves gas, pains in the stomach and bowels. How it restores appetite, vigor and sound sleep.

Tanlac is made of roots, barks and herbs—nature's own medicines for the sick. The cost is less than 2 cents a dose. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

Rockefeller Is Champion Waiter; Rich Men's Giving

By B. C. FORBES.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—"If we are not succeeding," said young John D. Rockefeller the other evening, when I remarked to him that the public are beginning to realize that the Rockefeller fortune is being used with unsurpassed wisdom, "it is not because we are not trying hard to render some worthwhile service to the human race."

"The change in the public's attitude during the last twenty years toward your father must be very gratifying to him—as well as to you," I remarked, and added: "I recall that a decade ago your father bagged me never to write anything in the way of criticism or condemnation of those who indulged in bitter criticism or condemnation of him."

"That's exactly like father," said John D. Jr. "He never for a moment doubted that the public's attitude would change, once they learned the whole truth. No man ever wasted less time or vitality on harboring or expressing resentment or hate or bleeding of any kind. He has always been quite content to wait. He can outwait any man I have ever known. He has patience unlimited."

Our long, wholly informal chat brought to mind the veritable revolution now under way in large-scale American philanthropy.

Not content with giving away millions during their own life, more and more of our very rich men are withdrawing either wholly or partly from active business in order to devote their time and talents to the intelligent administration of their money for unselfish, beneficient purposes.

The elder Rockefeller set something of an example in this direction, and his only son devotes a good deal more than half of his time to money-giving rather than to money-making. Carnegie withdrew wholly from business to revel in the joy he derived from giving away millions.

Only the other day William H. Luden, millionaire maker of the well-known cough drops, announced that he had disposed of his plant at Reading, Pa., in order to devote his whole time and fortune to the philanthropies which his interested film increasingly as his wealth increased. One condition of the sale was that the working forces would not be disturbed. The educating of boys and youths has been a hobby of his hobbies, and in this field he set an example which many well-to-do employers may feel inclined to follow: For years he has paid a bonus of $250 a year to his employes for each child they have kept at high school.

Early this year John Markle, for almost a half-century an outstanding leader in the anthracite coal industry, announced the establishment of the John and Mary R. Markle Foundation, granted by the New York State Legislature one of the broadest charters for philanthropy ever drawn up, and having among its trustees J. P. Morgan, one of the original J. P., who was one of Mr. Markle's cronies. The purposes enumerated include: "The general good of mankind," education, vocational and technical schools, libraries, scientific and medical research shelter and financial and medical assistance for the needy, etc. Says Mr. Markle:

"When you acquire money, you become trustee for your fellow men and should use it."

Mr. Markle, too, has entirely given up business to spend the remainder of his life in administering his wealth for the benefit of others.

George Eastman several years ago relinquished the presidency of his gigantic business because, said he:

"If a man has wealth he has to make a choice, because there is the money-grasping urge. He can keep it together in a bunch, and then leave it for others to administer after he is dead. Or he can put it into action and have fun while he is still alive. I prefer getting it into action and adapting it to human needs."

* * *

Julius Rosenwald, mail order pioneer, has long divided his life between business and philanthropic activities. Milton S. Hershey adopted a similar course years ago. A wealthy Wall Street banker, George Blumenthal, retired two years ago to devote his time mainly to philanthropic work.

Have these men the right idea?

EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE ☆ ☆ BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN ☆ ☆ BOSTON NOVEMBER 25, 1927

THE BOSTON AMERICAN'S PLATFORM FOR BOSTON AND NEW ENGLAND

For BOSTON: 1—Clean streets.
2—Solution of traffic and parking problems.
3—Better pay for honest public service.
4—An airport SECOND TO NONE.
5—Erection of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare with any in the land, in order that Boston, properly supplied with first-class hotels, may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A.

For NEW ENGLAND: 1—Weld the six States into a unit through the activities of the New England Council, thus creating a community consciousness.
2—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging New Englanders to "turn to the sea" again.
3—Keeping everlastingly at the job of telling the rest of the country all about our unique advantages as Summer and Winter Playground of the Nation.
4—Foster the prosperity of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising.
5—Promote in every way such natural resources as forests, water powers and fisheries.
6—Assist New England agriculture to better marketing methods.

After Bull Moose

There Are Believed to Be 170 of Them in Maine and 1,500 Non-Resident Hunters Have Come to Get Them

Approximately 1,500 non-resident hunters have paid the Fish and Game Department of the State of Maine $25 each for the privilege of hunting moose this week.

The licenses expire at midnight on Saturday.

After throwing its protection around the king of the forest for several years the Pine Tree State has decided that, for one week only, anyone who can may help himself to a bull moose.

In the eight counties which have been thrown open there are said to be no more than 500 moose, of which perhaps one-third are bulls. Of these perhaps 75 or 100 will fall before the invading sportsmen. Cow and calf moose must not be molested.

Why has Maine lifted the ban? Because, they say, the BULL moose has become a "menace."

In Waldo County—Belfast, Winterport, Searsport, Jackson, Palermo, Freedom and Burnham—they are "particularly numerous."

Berry pickers have been driven from the pastures by the animals. Two women, charged by one, reached their automobile barely in time to get away. Vinal Hills, of Waldo, died from injuries he received when a moose frightened his horse.

In some sections of the State they have wandered into dooryards, walked up and down the streets.

In Monroe, thirteen miles north of Belfast, a motorist was held up one night last week by two big bulls, which pranced in front of his car until in desperation he turned out and speeded past.

With all their terrorism, however, there are not enough to go 'round. Add to the 1,500 visitors the hundreds of Maine men and boys who may come in on the ordinary 25-cent license of the resident and it looks like "slim pickings."

No one, however, was ever the loser for a week spent in the Maine woods. Our hunters will come back to us reinvigorated, better fitted for their tasks. And what stories they will have to tell of the big fellow that got away!

A Loaf of Bread

Because It Was Made in Brockton the Man Who Sold It in Holbrook Is Fined Ten Dollars

An unusual case was brought to the attention of the Quincy District Court recently when one of the drivers employed by a Brockton baker was found guilty of selling bread in the neighboring town of Holbrook.

The driver had failed to take out a Holbrook license, as all such operators are required to do by a Massachusetts law passed last year.

In view of the law, there was nothing for the court to do but impose a fine of Ten Dollars.

Counsel for the accused driver, declaring this to be the first prosecution of the sort in the history of the Commonwealth, promised to take the matter to the Supreme Judicial Court.

That is what should be done. Brockton and Holbrook are but five miles apart. Holbrook shoe-workers by the score are employed in Brockton factories. It is not impossible that the bread in question was baked in a Brockton oven by a Holbrook baker.

It would seem to the innocent bystander that there ought to be no question of the right of the Massachusetts manufacturer to offer his wares anywhere in Massachusetts, without the pother and the expense of taking out separate licenses for each town and city.

Style

Men Are Now Its Devotees

A prominent tailor says that men now pay more attention to the styles than do women. Most young men are fastidious in their dress and middle-aged and old men follow the lead of the younger ones in an attempt to fool Old Pa Time.

Clothes do not make the man, but they give him confidence, and confidence, as Wildcat would say, is what men these days need nothing else but.

Women take less interest in new styles than men. Perhaps the reason is that there is so little of a woman's dress to look at.

Taxed

How Chamberlin Was Rewarded

Next to what "Lindy" did, the transatlantic flight piloted by Clarence Chamberlin stands out as perhaps the most notable feat yet done in the air.

The Government of the United States, it seems, has given him no official recognition for it. The Government has, instead, taxed him about $100 for the medals he received from foreign countries.

Congress might at least waive the tariff on medals won by our unofficial ambassadors abroad.

Costly

No Wonder Girls Are Called "Dear"

The poor old goof who spent $200,000 in one year on his fair charmer and then hastened back to the bosom of his family after settling her suit with a large cash payment extra is but another exemplification of the fact that there is a reason.

There is a reason, for instance, why many girls are called "dear." The old broker has found how expensive at least one of them can be.

GIN AND REVOLVER A POOR MIXTURE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

ONE of the most sensible means to abate the crime wave and the many killings that take place in every community is to stop the sale of revolvers.

"Eliminate your pistols and revolvers and you will stop your emotional killings." This is the statement, not by a pacifist or by a preacher, but by Jack Black, a playwright. He is a playwright and author of crime stories.

The sale of lethal weapons ought not to be indiscriminate. Just as we have stopped the public sale of alcohol because some people do not know how to use it, so we should stop the public sale of killing machines.

The utmost prudence and caution should be exercised by the authorities in allowing anyone to sell a gun of any kind.

A gun should be in the possession only of those people who are authorized to take life when necessary, such as policemen and sheriffs.

The essence of civilization is to refer our personal quarrels to a higher authority. Let the policeman carry the gun instead of carrying it ourselves.

In former times every gentleman had his own sword or pistol and settled his own affairs of honor upon the duelling field. There were many more killings than there are now.

Of course, banning lethal weapons would not entirely do away with crimes of passion, but it would help some. A revolver is a dangerous thing to have around and the average citizen has no business with one.

"Make it impossible to get revolvers cheap and difficult to get them at all. Most of all, remove them from among the furnishings of mantel pieces and desk drawers and you will stop more than 50 per cent. of your murders," says the author quoted above.

When you mix some illicit gin with a revolver anything is liable to happen.

This author quoted was once a condemned criminal and ought to know the inside of the killing business.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

OVER in Italy Mister Mussolini is shutting off the radios at 10 p. m. and telling the folks to go to bed.

In Chicago they've hired a nice business man who knows a lot about sports to go through the libraries and burn all the "unpatriotic" histories which tell distressing things about our American heroes—like saying they sometimes took a glass too much or looked at a lady too many.

And in Oregon, the ladies of the W.C.T.U. invoked the law in an attempt to stop the debate on Companionate Marriage between Judge Lindsey and Rabbi Newman.

All of these various people, are well meaning, earnest and conscientious. They honestly believe that you can make people good by putting laws and lids on them. They sincerely think that Free Fun and Free Speech are bad medicine for the human race. I'm not going to argue the point. Maybe some of us will ravel out under the strain. And maybe we won't. Be that as it may, the point I wish to make is this—

THE WORST THING THAT CAN HAPPEN TO A MAN IS NOT TO LET THINGS HAPPEN TO HIM.

The human biped has an inalienable right to pursue happiness.

But he has an even more sacred and fundamental right—and that is THE RIGHT TO RISK UNHAPPINESS—to face danger, to commit mistakes, to make a darned fool of himself, if such be his impulse.

For some strange reason, this prerogative, which he often used disastrously, is much more essential to his growth than any amount of second hand wisdom or right-eousness.

Human beings don't grow well under glass. They've got to get in and wrestle with the weather and buy a lot of miscellaneous experience before they're worth their salt. I don't know why this is, but a fairly High Authority seems responsible for it.

GOD DIDN'T MAKE A CHEMICALLY PURE GARDEN OF EDEN.

HE PLANTED A HIGHLY DANGEROUS TREE OF WISDOM IN THE MIDST OF ALL THE PRETTY FLOWERS AND HE DIDN'T PUT ANY BARBED WIRE AROUND IT, EITHER. NOR DID HE CLAMP ANY HANDCUFFS ON EVE'S WRISTS.

EVE COULD GRAB, IF SHE WISHED, AND ADAM COULD BITE.

GOD LEFT THEM FREE TO MAKE THEIR OWN CHOICE AND TAKE THEIR TUMMY ACHE ALONG WITH THEIR NEW WISDOM.

Of course he could have arranged it differently. He could have issued an injunction against that serpent's debate and he could have appointed a squad of angels to go sleuthing around the garden, smelling breaths to see if anyone had been eating apples. But He didn't.

HE EVIDENTLY DECIDED THAT ANYONE WHO WAS MADE IN HIS OWN IMAGE HAD A RIGHT TO A LITTLE FREE WILL, AND THE CHANCE TO GROW A BACKBONE. SO HE LET THEM TAKE THEIR CHANCES.

Yes, I admit that was a long time ago. But I still think He knew a lot more about handling folks than some people I could mention.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

DEAR Days-To-Be, so far away, all shadowless, serene and gay, I turn to greet with eager eyes your song-sweet paths, your cloudless skies! Or, not for dull, dark days like these are your celestial harmonies; but brighter far than days we see your hours will glow, O, Days-To-Be! How can it be the future gleams always like some rare land of dreams? For surely from the Days-That-Are we weave the web of days afar! And Days-To-Be glow dark or bright to match the passing hours' flight. They take their colors from today, a tender rose or sombre gray. Dear Days-To-Be, serene and far, that beckon like a silver star, may I not weave life's web aright, and keep your promise of delight?

THREE COLLEGE MEN WHO MADE GOOD

By Garrett P. Serviss,
Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Subjects of Popular Interest

HERE is a story of three college undergraduates which may interest serious-minded young men. It is not a new story, but it may have been forgotten by those who once knew it.

Somewhere about 1812, John F. W. Herschel, Charles Babbage and George Peacock were students together in Cambridge University, England. They all stood high in their classes. Herschel graduating as "Senior Wrangler" (a big thing for a young man); Peacock as "Second Wrangler," standing next to Herschel; while Babbage, who did not compete for these skiey mathematical honors, nevertheless gained a great reputation at the university for his mastery of mathematical subjects.

While they were studying together at Cambridge these three scholarly young men entered into a remarkable compact. They formally resolved that they would "do their best to leave the world wiser than they found it."

Whether the success of the three knights errant of wisdom in their field exceeded that of the crusading monarch in his, may, perhaps, be judged by what happened with the three when they went out into the world. Young Herschel became the celebrated astronomer Sir John Herschel, whose labors and discoveries certainly did leave the world wiser than it had been before concerning the universe in which we live.

Young Peacock became a famous dean of Ely Cathedral. But with his two colleagues, he contributed powerfully to the reform of mathematical teaching in England, for his call into the ecclesiastical fold did not diminish his devotion to science. He died just a year before Darwin published "The Origin of Species."

Charles Babbage, the third of the ambitious trio, believed he could construct an "analytic engine" that would perform "any series of possible arithmetical operations." This masterpiece was unfinished at his death in 1871, and mathematicians since then have not been quite decided on the question whether Babbage could ever have carried it to successful completion.
